SMUTS WITH IRISH HALF WHO ARE ON THE RUN NOW

South African Premier Hopeful Over The Emerald Isle

STAIN ON EMPIRE

Wipe It Out For Sake Of The Dear Old Country

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 7.—At a dinner given here last night in honor of the delegates to the Imperial Conference, General Smuts gave expression to some of the impressions he had received during his brief visit to Ireland.

He declared that he had found the people in Ireland divided into two classes, those who were in jail and those who were on the run. His assertion that he had found himself in the latter class and that the Irish must admit that he could play the part just as well as they, was greeted with laughter and cheers.

He continued with a humorous account of how he had been unsuccessfully pursued by press representatives from Euston to Dublin and back.

General Smuts expressed a conviction that the Irish question was capable of solution, if a better atmosphere existed and if the parties to the dispute were actuated not by an ancient antipathy but by more good will and a determination to wipe out what was really a stain upon the Empire.

Although he was not oversanguine, he was hopeful for the sake of the Empire, Ireland and "this dear old country" that the question would be solved and the Empire freed from the imputation that in that ancient part of the United Kingdom there still existed a violation of the fundamental principles on which the Empire rested.

He believed that the problem could be solved because he had seen it solved in his own country under circumstances not so bitter but nevertheless very difficult.

The racial struggle had gone on in South Africa for a hundred years, but finally, in a spirit of large wisdom, give and take and forbearance, the problem had been solved and today South Africa was one of the happiest countries in the British Empire.

London, July 6.—General Smuts conferred with Mr. Lloyd George, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland; Lord Birkenhead, Lord Chancellor; Mr. Balfour, Lord President of the Council and Mr. Edward Shortt Home Secretary, in London, this morning, on the question of Irish peace.

The newspapers state that Mr de Valera is willing to attend the conference in London provided that there is a neutral chairman, not Mr. Lloyd George.

It is believed that the conference in London is primarily concerned with conditions for any possible suspension of hostilities which British official circles believe to be almost indispensable to the progress of the peace deliberations.

London, July 6.—A conference on the Irish question was held here this morning and was attended by Mr. Lloyd George, General Smuts Lord Midleton (representing the Southern Unionists) and Sir James Craig (the Ulster Premier). The greatest secrecy was observed.

London, July 7.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and others concerned in the Irish situation are this morning with General Smuts at the latter's headquarters in London. General Smuts will, at the conclusion of the conference, proceed to Buckingham Palace, and report personally to the King.

Chinese In Siam Again After Treaty

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—The Government has received a further petition from the Chinese emigrant associations in Siam, requesting the resumption of the negotiations for the conclusion of a commercial treaty between China and Siam.

Negotiations were being carried on at Tokio last spring when Mr. Chang Tsung-hsiang was Chinese Minister at Tokio but reached a deadlock on the subject of extra-territoriality and have not since been revived.

First White Woman To Journey In to Heart Of Sahara

Mrs Rosita Forbes.

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, recently received by King George, is the first white woman to reach Kufra, the Senussi fastness across the Libyan Desert, placing her in the front ranks of explorers. She travelled from Benghazi across the Libyan desert to the oasis of Kufra, the headquarters of the Senussi never before visited by a white woman, and only once by a European (Rohlfe) over 40 years ago. The journey was one of great hardship and danger, due chiefly to the fanaticism of the Zawais, a native tribe who hate strangers.

HAYASHI GLAD JAPAN AIDED EMPIRE'S WAR

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador, was present at Kingston regatta today.

Replying to an address of welcome from the Mayor, Baron Hayashi expressed his pride that Japan had assisted Great Britain during the war, and paid a tribute to British bravery. The Ambassador declared that Japan's aim for the future was to maintain peace in the same common spirit.

Toasting Baron Hayashi at a luncheon given by the Mayor in his honor, Lord Cave said that the people of Great Britain would never forget that Japan had been for many years their close and valued ally.

Baron Hayashi, in replying, expressed his pleasure at the termination of the coal trouble and said he hoped the Irish problem would soon be settled satisfactorily. Japan and Great Britain, the speaker added, had worked together for half a century and he was sure they would continue to do so.

C.M.S.N. Co. Dispute Now Is Settled; Proceedings In Courts Are Withdrawn

Government Envoy Telegraphs Report Of Amicable Arrangement; Former Minister Of Justice Will Help Revise Articles

The tempest which broke at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., China's biggest shipping enterprise, has subsided. The report of the government commissioner, Mr. Sze Chao-tseng, director of the Lunghai Railway, has absolved both factions of blame and recommended the formation of a committee to revise the constitution of the company, which, he said is sadly in need of revision and alternation.

As a result, it is understood that the proceedings instituted in the International and French Mixed Courts have been withdrawn and the Union of Shareholders of the company formed at 110 Bubbling Well Road has voluntarily dissolved, while one of its heads, Mr. Chang Yi-pang, former Minister of Justice, will head the new Revision Committee.

The dispute arose at the 47th annual meeting of the company, held at the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce on May 28, when dissatisfaction over the administration of the company was freely expressed. One of the strong advocates for reorganisation was Mr. Sun Tih-chou, compradore of the Kiangsing and representing a section of the huge holdings of the Sheng Kung Pao family.

BALLOT BOX SEIZED

His scheme, though endorsed by several others, was opposed by Chen Yung-ling, interpreter to Mr. G. D. Musso, the Italian attorney, and others. After the discussion, the meeting began its balloting. When the vote was being cast, a man dressed in black and appearing to be of the loafer class stepped forward and seized the ballot box. He was at once stopped by some of the shareholders and handed over to the police but was released later, according to announcement at the meeting by Mr. Fu Siao-en, one of the old directors.

The meeting was recalled to order after the excitement and passed certain resolutions detrimental to the interest of the opposition party of Sun Tih-chou.

Two days later, Mr. Chen Yung-ling by his attorney secured an injunction against the company, restraining the defendants from carrying out the resolutions passed at the meeting, which amounted to an order which would disable the entire administrative machinery of the company.

CIVIL CASE BEGUN

At the same time, Mr. Fu Siao-en instituted civil proceedings in the French Mixed Court against Mr. Sun Tih-chao for alleged slander, claiming damage to the extent of Tls. 100,000.

A number of shareholders including the Sheng family formed a union at the Sheng residence, headed by Mr. Chang Yi-pang and Mr. Li Wei-hou. The union sought governmental pressure to rescind the order of the International Mixed Court and as a result Mr. Sze was appointed by the Ministry of

HUGHES URGES PROPAGANDA ON PRIME MINISTERS

Scores British Press For Travesty On Truth Of Dominions News

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—The speeches delivered at yesterday's sitting of the conference of Imperial Prime Ministers were all very long.

Mr. Hughes urged the need for establishing speedy and constant communication between the various parts of the Empire and Great Britain, and predicted that the day was not far distant when the Prime Ministers of the Dominions would be in constant wireless communication. He did not see, he added, any alternative if real participation by the Dominions in the affairs of the Empire were to be attained.

Mr. Hughes urged that greater attention should be paid to imperial public opinion as it will become a dominant factor in regard to the Empire's future. Yet, continued the Australian Prime Minister, the columns of the British press pitiably travesty the truth regarding conditions obtaining in all the Dominions.

He admitted that the cause was due to the fact that every word cabled cost from seven and a half to nine shillings.

He outlined the wireless situation throughout the Empire and laid stress on the need for complete modernisation of the system, pointing out how America flooded the world, and especially the Far East, with propaganda news services.

Mr. Meighen, Canada, agreed with Mr. Hughes regarding the paucity of news, but called attention to the fact that it was not that news was not signalled but that because the newspapers generally did not print Dominions cables the press was in position of simply selling what goods were in chief demand.

Sir Thomas Smartt, South Africa, agreed that it was very difficult to suggest a remedy but at the same time most important to find one.

Railwaymen Want Peace, Says Thomas

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—At a conference of railwaymen at Newcastle, Mr. J. H. Thomas, the railwaymen's leader, said that they wanted peace in the railway service. He did not, he added, see any danger of a railway strike in August, but the directors must meet the men in a fair spirit.

RICE STRIKE LESS SERIOUS THOUGH GUILD ACTION FAILS

Distribution Depots Care For Demands Of Poor

BOATS ARRIVING

Meeting At Chamber Ends In Near Riot

There were further indications yesterday that the rice strike is breaking up, though the settlement which was expected to come yesterday had a sensational setback when the meeting of the shopkeepers guild, held at the Chamber of Commerce on North Honan Road, broke up in riotous fashion after the chairman has been rushed almost from the platform by the dissenting faction of shop keepers.

In spite of the failure of the meeting to accept the council's assurances and agree to reopening of the shops, the situation was seen in a much more favorable light. Nine distribution depots in Chinese territory are selling rice in small quantities to all purchasers, a small percentage of the shops in Frenchtown, Nantao and Chapei are selling stock and more rice boats have arrived from the interior. Pootung shops, though their stocks are being drained by the swell of business, are available to the buyers from Yangtszepoo and buying for Shanghai consumption has extended to Woosung, Lotien, Minghong, Nanziang and other surrounding points.

MANY WOULD RESUME

In addition to these facts, it was stated yesterday that well over fifty percent of the merchants, including all districts, are anxious to resume business and allow the matter of licensing to continue under the concessions made by the Council—the Guild to supervise stock inventorying and further negotiations to be held if the system is regarded as unsatisfactory. The Chinese press yesterday was almost unanimous editorially that the strike must be brought to an end before the poorer classes begin to feel the pinch of hunger, and urged the striking dealers to reopen their doors and start selling, bringing further petitions to the Council afterward if they so wished.

The meeting held yesterday morning proved a great disappointment to the more conservative elements of the dealers. Called to order at about 9 a.m. the seven hundred odd representatives of the retail shops were addressed first by Mr. C. C. Nieh, chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, who told of the negotiations with the Council and urged that the dealers accept the proposal of the Municipal body, reopen shops and continue negotiations thereafter if such procedure was thought necessary.

BOLT COMES SUDDENLY

A vote was called for—those favoring to stand to the right and those against to the left—and at the outset indications were that there would be a decisive ballot for resuming business. Exactly what started the recoil is a matter fogged in dispute.

One report is that, Mr. Nieh having spoken in Mandarin, the body of shop keepers misunderstood him to state that the Council was prepared to cancel the licensing regulation, and that when the speech had finally been translated into Shanghai dialect the delegates swung to the negative.

Another theory is that the swerve was caused by Mr. Ziar, one of the Chinese advisors to the Council, asking that all against reopening sign a roster and affix their chops; that this was taken as an indication that legal prosecution would be instituted against all who thus placed themselves on record. A delegate who arose to speak against the licensing was requested to come forward and sign a document. He came forward, according to this report, and was arguing at the table when one of the guild's committeemen, in remonstrating with him, laid a hand upon him. Immediately there was a rush for the platform and a number of the delegates succeeded in mounting it. In the confusion, the chairman was knocked down and the meet-

Burma Is Land Of Beulah While Rest Of Globe Seethes

By Bruce Hopper

Go to the ant if you would acquire riches, but play with the grasshopper if you would be happy, is what Esop was trying to articulate in his best Greek. Respect for the ant, but affection for the light-hearted grasshoper is the run of human weakness.

The Chinese in Rangoon, chasing rupees all the day, is the ant if ever there was such an industrious creature. The indolent Burman qualifies as a grasshopper, without even the grasshopper's eventual day of reckoning.

The world was perhaps never so unhappy as it is today. Nations and individuals are reaching after fruit above their heads and have not the philosophy to declare inaccessible grapes to be sour.

One finds the Italians stretching out an extra leg to straddle the Adriatic. The Greeks are impoverishing their already poor little country to realise a pan-Hellenic dream, to bring under their flag all the shores that once formed the "glory that was Greece," and make the Mediterranean once more an Athenian lake.

The entire Arabic world is seething with open revolt against white domination, and would regain political power for Islam. The Jews would have Jerusalem, and the splendor that was Solomon's. Poor India is in the last degree disconsolate, sighing for unidentified ideals and aspirations. But after the nightmare and depressing atmosphere of India one comes to the Land of Beulah, which is Burma.

NATURE IS WITH HIM

Why is the Burman so happy? Has he learned the secret of the Bluebird? He is the only laughing, singing mortal in this world of woes. He lives in a bountiful land, where the fruit hangs within reach, where the rice harvests itself, and the fish are impatient to come into his net. Abundantly provided by generous nature he is gifted with a buoyant spirit. He is the only true follower of Epicurus. He has no want but escape from desire, which leads to Nirvana, according to the creed of Buddha.

The Burman knows how to play. He has the Madrasi coolies to labor for him. He is the patrician. Riches do not attract him, and if, by chance he becomes wealthy he straightway sets out to spend the money in building pagodas, in giving pwes or public festivals, dancing feasts, and musical entertainments for his friends.

He takes his morning bath, then strolls about his path of ground smoking a "whacking, white cheroot" with the air of a luxurious landlord. After breakfast he dozes through the heat of the day, and gets out for the evening of cock fighting, boat racing, and dramatic performances. Gambling is his passion, and on the days of horse races the employers at Rangoon and Mandalay may as well try to stop the wind as keep the staff at the desks.

Generosity is a picture which appears best in a frame of happiness. Every one enjoys the fulness of life in Burma. In no other country are the priests supported by the pure joy of giving. The wearers of the yellow robe file through the streets at daylight, begging from no one, and yet they return to their pagoda cells with their bowls overflowing with rice, and fish, and fruits. It is thus that the Burman earns merit. When he buys gold leaf to spread on the surface of the famous Shwe Dagon pagoda he invites his friends to share the merit, that all may be happy on the next rung of the ladder of existence.

SOFT FOR THE LADIES

Burma is the paradise of women. There the wife is more independent than in western countries, and yet more feminine. The Burma girl is pretty, and therefore to be wooed, a woman, and therefore to be won. Unlike all other Asiatic countries Burma believes in "self-determination" in matters of marriage. The young spark accidentally calls at the house of his sweetheart at nine p.m., and there finds the object of his ardent affections accidentally dressed in her best, with flowers in her hair, powder on her cheeks; and armed for conquest.

The old folks disappear, as old folks should. The beau presents the lady with a beautiful kerchief, inscribed with love verses of his own composition which would make Catullus seem like

Introducing Bruce Hopper

BRUCE Hopper, who has just walked from Burma over the Himalaya Mountains into China, skirting Thibet and reaching the upper waters of the Yangtsze, which he navigated through the rapids in a small boat, has joined the staff of THE CHINA PRESS.

A graduate of both Harvard and Oxford, an aviator of distinction and a newspaper man, he started on a trip around the world after receiving his diploma from the Khaki University at the Sorbonne and as far as possible, kept off the beaten trail of the tourist.

He went to Spain, Italy, Greece, Constantinople and the Black Sea, then into Asia Minor, through Palestine, to Egypt, Ceylon and India before starting his long climb over the back fence into China.

From the upper Yangtsze he struck North through Szechuen and the Lolo Country to the Ya River, down the Min and back to the Yangtsze, later going to Peking and then coming to Shanghai.

Mr. Hopper, during the war, was an ambulance driver with the French and later was a Captain in the American Air Force and Flight Commander of the 96th Squadron. Captain Hopper holds the record for the greatest number of daylight raids made on enemy objectives by an American Flyer.

U.S. MARINES SAVE CONSUL WHO SEIZED A TON OF OPIUM

FOIL SMUGGLERS

Drug Worth $350,000 Seized In American Firm's Quarters

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 5.—U. S. Marines from the Villalobos were landed at Changsha a few days ago to save the Consulate from mob violence threatened by opium smugglers whose cargo had been seized by Vice-Consul Walter A. Adams. A ton of the drug was found on the premises of an American company and confiscated. Its value is estimated at $350,000 by the Customs authorities to whom Vice-Consul Adams turned it over.

The American Vice-Consul's action in the matter was based on his determination to prevent the native agents of an American firm from using the protection of the American flag for illicit drug traffic; and this action had the warm approval of the local Chinese authorities.

The Chinese agents of the company did not, however, agree with the Vice-Consul's viewpoint. They lost their opium and with it the fortune that they hoped to realise from it, and their disappointment and wrath were correspondingly great. They have allowed these sentiments to lead them to threaten the life of the Vice-Consul and the destruction of the Consulate, so that it was necessary for the Gunboat Villalobos to land a detachment of Marines and a machine gun for the protection of Mr. Adams and his Consulate.

At present the situation is quiet and the opium smugglers have taken no steps to carry out their threats, according to a telegram received from Changsha last night. And it now is believed that matters will remain as they are, the Marines of the Villalobos being quite competent to handle the situation.

London, July 6.—Replying to Mr. Robert Waddington, Coalition Unionist, in the House of Commons today, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, said that he was not aware that the Chinese Government was proposing to raise the customs duty from five to ten percent.

He gathered that it was proposed to revise the tariff in order to increase the duties to the equivalent of an effective five percent and that the Treaty Powers were considering this course.

Hotel-Keepers Not Liable In Cases Of Thefts Of Jeweley

Singapore, June 29.—The District Judge has given an important decision in the case of a hotel guest seing the management in respect of articles stolen from his room at night time.

His honor held that the English law of liability of innkeepers was applicable here and gave judgment for plaintiff respecting articles stolen such as clothing anent which the management was reasonably responsible, but concerning others, such as a watch and money left on the dressing table, he gave judgment for defendants (Raffle's Hotel) on the ground of plaintiff's own negligence. It was properly to be expected, he said, that hotel guests should lock up or otherwise safeguard such property.

Professor Bolsters Up Need Of Pact

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—Professor Arthur Berriedale Keith, of Edinburgh University, in a letter to the press, argues that Great Britain and Japan are absolutely obliged under Article 20 of the League of Nations Covenant to revise the Anglo-Japanese Treaty if it continues to be in force, and that one year's notice of the termination of the Treaty should be given on the understanding that efforts shall meanwhile be made to conclude a further Treaty. The difficulty as regards the Dominions may, he contends, be surmounted by a provision that the terms of the new Treaty shall not apply to the Dominions unless accepted by the Dominions Parliaments.

(Article 20 of the League Covenant reads:

The memebers of the League severally agree that this Covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations or understandings inter se which are inconsistent with the terms thereof. In case any Member of the League shall, before becoming a Member of the League, have undertaken any obligations inconsistent with the terms of this Covenant, it shall be the duty of such Member to take immediate steps to procure its release from such obligations.)

London, July 7.—According to a telegram from New York the Philadelphia Public Ledger declares that official overtures have been made to America to join with Great Britain and Japan in an agreement regarding the Pacific and suggesting a tripartite agreement.

The paper adds that the matter is receiving the most serious consideration by the United States Government.

C.E. Railway May Issue Debentures

(Delta News Agency)

Chita, July 1.—An official of the Chinese Eastern Railway, who has returned from the shareholders' conference in Peking, states that in order to meet the obligations to the Chinese Government and the outstanding debts for fuel and other supplies, the railway is about to issue debentures to the amount of 20,000,000 rubles. He says that as a result of a difference of opinion between the Managing Director, Mr. Ostroumoff, who insisted on purely business methods, and his assistant Mr. Lachinoff, the latter has resigned his position, and was followed by Mr. Pushkareff. Messrs. von Goyer, Nagrodsky, Pimenoff and Jouznetsoff are mentioned their prospective successors.

China Merchants Now At Peace

Communications to conduct a thorough investigation of the controversy.

The full text of Mr. Sze's message to the Ministry follows:

Translation of Chinese telegram from Sze Chao-tseng to the Ministry of Communications, dated June 30, 1921:

"In pursuance to your order to proceed to Shanghai to investigate the trouble that arose in connection with the regular shareholders' meeting of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company, I, after going about for ten days, am able to report that all misunderstanding between the various parties have been cleared up, and the matter has come to an end.

CONSTITUTION OBSOLETE

"It has been found that all trouble arose through the fact that the constitution and by-laws of this company have been in existence for too long a period and are sadly in need of revision and alteration in view of changing conditions. The suit, which shareholder, Chen Yung-ling brought aimed at a proper constitution and by-laws for the company. It is quite natural that all shareholders are agreed in their hope to see the company run in the best way, and although there is a diversity of opinion, there is but one common aim.

"Having found out the cause of trouble it is not too late to work at rectification. Accordingly, on the 25th inst., important shareholders were called together to be promotors for the formation of a Committee to revise the constitution and by-laws of the company, and to elect members to draft a new constitution and by-laws for the company, gathering together, first of all, the company's old or existing constitution and by-laws and other important documents and records and revising them; adopting what is good and rejecting what is unsound with a view to present day circumstances. When the members have completed drafting them, a special shareholders' meeting will be called to pass them and then submit them to the Ministry of Communications for permission to put them into execution. Then, as a matter of course, all disputes will certainly be removed.

OLD BOARD TO ACT

"In the meantime, as the affairs of the company must not be neglected even for a day, it is necessary for the shareholders to write jointly a formal letter to the old Board of Directors informing them that before the passing of the newly drafted constitution and by-laws in the shareholders' meeting, and their submission to the Ministry of Communications, the old Board and all executive officers of the company shall be responsible for the affairs of the company and its management, and that in any matter requiring improvement and readjustment they should impartially and actively carry them out. The shareholders have unanimously agreed to this, and the old Board of Directors and executive officers are all willing to bear respqnsibilities.

"On the 29th inst., the promotors again called a meeting with the result that eight rules in connection with the drafting of a new constitution and by-laws were decided upon, and nine members to act as a drafting committee were elected, and so, the Committee for the drafting of new constitution and by-laws for the China Merchants S. N. Co. came formally into existence on that day, and the revision will be jointly carried out with a view to a satisfactory outcome and to prevent disputes and confusion. I have to report for your information.

Sze Chao-tseng."

The following is a translation of Chinese telegram from Sze Chao-Tseng (etc.) and Chang Yi-pung to the Ministry of Communications, dated June 30, 1921:

"With reference to the trouble that arose at the regular shareholders' meeting of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, I, Sze Chao-tseng, reported on the matter in a previous telegram the cause of dispute and the method of rectification. I beg further to report that the Committee for drafting of the new constitution and by-laws of the company has been formed and formallly came into existence on the 29th June, 1921. Nine members have been elected to do the work, and Chang Yi-pung has been elected Chairman of the Committee.

Russian Opera

Mr. Daniloff and Miss Kasanskaya had the title roles in Romeo and Juliet at the Lyceum last night in the latest offering of the Russian Grand Opera Company.

The opera was well staged and costumed and the parts were cast to voices suited to the characters in the story. Daniloff did full justice to the part of the impetuous lover. His voice needs no comment. He scored in Romeo as he did on the opening night in Faust.

Miss Kasanskaya, as Juliet, not only had the delicate physical charm that goes with the part, but in addition a beautiful soprano voice, and a fine, artistic sense for portraying the role.

A choice variety of voice was furnished by Burskaya who sang the part of Stephana, Romeo's page. Her rich mezzo contralto, which won so much admiration in Carmen on her first appearance here with this company added much to the quality of the opera.

Karlash, the Mephistopheles in Faust, who sang the part of the friar Lorenzo last night won several encores after the marriage scene. His voice and his portrayal of part are of the real artist class.

Burma Is Beulah Land For Barmans

a misogynist by comparison. The lady of the thatched jungle shack gives him huge cheroots, fashioned by her own delicate fingers, and they smoke the hours away.

At the wedding feast they feed each other from the same dish, after which they go into seclusion for seven days. The wedding night, however, is a stormy one, for the jealous bachelor friends levy blackmail, and pelt the love nest with stones until the groom buys them off. If the marriage proves to be a mistake divorce is merely a matter of complaining to the village elders, who anull decrees as glady as they grant them. Who could not be happy when thus protected from domestic inconveniences?

And thus the Burmans are riotously happy while the rest of the world is upside down. They are the blessed among mortals, and live in an Arcadia of sunshine, flowers, song, and the ringing of pagoda bells.

It will always be a question as to which is right, the ant, or the happy grasshopper.

Woman Powdering Nose Started Riot At The New World

Shooting Of Two Policemen Grew Out Of Complimentary Remark

A complimentary comment made in English regarding a Chinese woman engaged in powdering her nose and mistaken as an insult by her was the starting point for the riot at the New World June 17 which resulted in the death of a Sikh trooper and serious wounding of a Chinese policeman.

Eight men appeared before Assessor Ferrajole and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed Court yesterday on riot charges. When the hearing opened Mr. R. C. Faithfull, police prosecutor asked an adjournment, stating that the man alleged to have done the shooting had been arrested by the British police in Hankow and is now being brought to Shanghai. He is expected to arrive Monday. The police did not oppose bail in the case of four of the present defendants, but did oppose it in the case of the other four. Mr. Krisel, representing two of the latter, and Messrs. Kentwell and Ponson Chu, representing the others objected and asked bail for their clients. In giving the police reasons for opposing the release of the men, Detective Sergeant Kiloh sketched the origin of the fracas.

On the night of June 16, the witness said, the first accused, Zee Tse-woo, was at the New World amusement resort, accompanied by his two sisters and two other women. The names of the sisters were given as "Jinny" and "Pearl." The sisters went to the ladies' retiring room, where they saw the wife of one Wai Yui-ling powdering her nose. "Pearl" remarked to "Jinny" in English that Mrs. Wei was a pretty woman. Mrs. Wei, not understanding English, believed that something derogatory to herself had been said and so reported to her husband, who was in company with the sixth accused, Loh Zau-kwang.

There was a quarrel and Loh went over to the first accused and said that he would bring a friend to help him. He returned with Zau Zang-tsen, the man who is alleged to have shot the policemen. Zau slapped the face of Zee's opponent. Zau, Zee and Loh then went to a house on Hankow Road where Zau and Loh informed the first accused that he must give them $60 on the following day for their trouble. The money was not paid but the next night the men met again accidentally at the New World and the trouble which led to the shooting arose. The police opposed bail because both the first and second accused were known to have been with the alleged slayer on the night of the shooting and because the sixth accused was known to be the leader of one of the parties which had clashed on the previous night.

The court allowed the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth accused released on $3,000 shop security.

Rotary Club Men Hear Of China's Remote Provinces

Mr. Josef W. Hall, Peking correspondent, and Mr. Bruce Hopper of the local staff of The China Press, were the speakers at the weekly meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club held at the Astor House yesterday.

Both speakers told of the life in remote provinces of China, Mr. Hall describing the social life in Northwest China as seen during his trip there as a member of the relief mission which went to Kansu after the earthquake.

Following the Marco Polo trail over the back fence, and out into the front garden of China, was the general theme of a short talk by Mr. Hopper. The purpose of his long overland trip from Burma was to navigate the upper waters of the Yangtsze. To attain that end he had to cover nearly 1,000 miles on foot, and 2,300 miles in small boat, raft and river steamer to arrive in Shanghai.

Mr. Hopper declared that poppy is being grown in even greater quantities than in the halcyon days for the smokers prior to 1906. There was an honest attempt to stamp out poppy cultivation, and the fields were planted with wheat and corn. Those same fields have changed from yellow back to the prevailing white of poppy blossoms, and in Yunnan the opium is so cheap that a smoker can get a week's supply in exchange for a few empty milk tins. Smoking is public in tea houses, special mats are laid out for the clients. The chair bearers stop every other hour to smoke by the road side.

Trade in western China is very brisk, in spite of the prevalent brigandage, and unsafety of merchandise on the road, Mr. Hopper said. Long caravans bring cotton, kerosene and other merchandise from Burma, and coffin boards from the Salween and Mekong divides. One serious inconvenience is the lack of a portable medium of exchange. The traveller cannot get a letter of credit, and must carry silver of the province. The exchange in copper cash per dollar varies so much that the caravan drivers profit by trips in carrying mule loads of cash from point to point. In the Yangtsze valley cash goes 3,000 to the dollar. In Teng Yueh it is 1,400. Caravans going south carry cash, those north bound load up with dollars.

Siberians Resent Effort To Renew Civil War By Ataman

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, July 2.—The "second Maritime con...," Grodekovo, is be object of public attention owadays. The Semenoffists are preading the rumor of an im- ending advance upon Iman and ransbaikalia over the Chinese Eastern Railway with the per- mission of General Chang Tso- in. The real situation is that he position of Semenoff is becom- ng critical. His intention to re- ew the civil war is resented ittorly by the whole population f Far Eastern Republic. Even he Ussuri Cossacks, the chief upporters of Semenoff until re- ently, in numerous resolutions efuse to participate in the new dventure and refuse to recognise he Ataman.

The Merkuloff government con- inues to cling to power by means f Tsarist methods in combating he democratic elements. Capital unishment has again come into xistence. Anti-Merkuloff papers re suppressed and confiscated. he Rabochaya Volia (Freedom f Workers) has been suppressed nd forbidden to reappear under new name.

After the departure of Seme- off from Vladivostok to Grode- ovo, some members of the Non- ocialist Conference held an xtra session in which they dopted a resolution denouncing he Ataman for his desire to re- ew civil war. The meeting was of he opinion that the Ataman's ove could only injure the cause f the anti-Bolshevik movement nd would result in gathering he population of Maritime Pro- ince about the banner of Far astern Republic.

SEMENOFF'S APPEAL

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 5.—General Sem- noff, in a speech made to his en at Grodekovo, is reported o have stated that he has sent a ourier to Marshal Chang Tso- in with the request that the arshal supply the Semenoff rces with arms and ammunition nd authorise them to proceed hrough the Chinese Eastern ailway Zone in order to under- ake an offensive against the hita Government. Marshal hang, on the other hand, reply- ng to an inquiry from the Chin- se colony at Vladivostok has enied catagorically the present r past existence of any agree- ent botween himself and Semen- ff.

While Semenoff is at present ctively inspecting and drilling is troops at Grodekovo and long the southern section of the ssuri Railway, his position is apidly becoming more pre- arious and the number of his dherents is growing smaller day y day. All the Russian political roups in the Maritime Provinces re coming out with public de- larations against him; and well nformed political circles in the ussian Far East state that his ays as a political and military actor in Siberia are numbered nd that the Chita Government as no cause to fear him.

JAPAN AND CHITA

Undoubtedly the biggest blow Semenoff's prestige has been bsolute withdrawal of Japanese pport, upon which he depended r any successful political and ilitary action. It seems clear, ccording to information received om a Harbin correspondent, at Japan's present policy is one orientation towards the Chita overnment and that she will not pport Semenoff either openly or ecretly. Japan's most recent ep in this direction is the pub- lication of an order to the Japan- ese railway guards along the Ussuri Railway instructing them to prevent Semenoff and his troops from causing any hindr- rance or obstruction to railway traffic along the Ussuri Line. This is taken as meaning that Semenoff will be unable to obtain sufficient transportation facilities in case he undertakes troops movements on a large scale.

With Chang Tso-lin, the lead- ing Russian political groups and the Japanese pledged not to lend aid to Semenoff the prestige of the Chita Government in the Russian Far East is growing, and it is regarded as probable that Chita will soon negotiate a work- ing agreement with the Merkuloff Government at Vladivostok tend- ing towards the reunification of the entire Russian Far East.

TRADE IS OBJECT

In the meantime the Japanese and the Chita representatives at Harbin are in daily contact, and it is reported that all of their dis- cussions are directed towards the conclusion of a workable trade and political agreement, to be followed at a more convenient time by Japan's official re- cognition of Chita. Mr. Shi- mada, who was reported some days ago as having concluded a provisional agreement of this kind with Vice-Minister Kojevnik- off, is still at Harbin; and, while the Japanese Legation at Peking denies that Mr. Shimada is em- powered to conclude any agreement with the Chita representatives, authoritative Harbin reports in- dicate that the Japanese and Chita- ites are working hard to conclude terms for the amicable settlement of their past differences.

The tendency of the past week's events has been, accord- ing to competent observers of the Siberian situation, to isolate Semenoff and other leaders of reaction in the Russian Far East and to correspondingly strengthen the position of Chita. Chita's growing prestige has been further enhanced by un- mistakable signs that Japan wishes to enter into closer rela- tions with her. Thus the out- look for more stable conditions in Siberia is regarded as more favorable than it has been for over three years.

DEPORT RUSSIANS FROM TURKEY

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—At question time in the House of Commons today, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that on June 29 the Com- mander-in-Chief at Constantino- ple, Major-General Sir Charles Harington, arrested 52 undesir- ables, eighteen of whom belonged to the Russian trade delegation. Nine of these were released and nine deported the same day.

General Harington's action was necessitated by the discovery of a plot to start a revolution in Constantinople, beginning with the assassination of the Com- mander-in-Chief. Mr. Harms- worth added that a note had been received from M. Krassin, the chief Russian trade delegate asking for an explanation, the reply to which was being con- sidered.

Mr. Harmsworth deprecated further discussion of the subject and promised that an investiga- tion would be instituted.

Rice Dealers' Meeting Finishes In Disorder

Another meeting was called for yesterday afternoon at the Chiao Kuo Tang Rice Merchants Guild in Nantao. It was original- ly intended that the merchants to meet would be those from Chinese territory and from Frenchtown, and it was anticipat- ed that they would vote agains: carrying on the strike. It is de- clared, however, that the notices of the meeting were altered by the more antagonistic faction of the Settlement merchants, who inserted the notification that they too would be represented at the meeting. In consequence when the hour set for the session ar- rived there were only about 70 merchants in attendance. They waited for an hour and, as the chairman and committeemen failed to appear, most of them left and the meeting was not held. It is expected, however, that a meeting will be held to- day.

Crowds of purchasers visited the distribution depots in Nantao and Chapei yesterday, additional police guards being stationed outside the bureaus to main- tain order.

Extra precautions were taken also in connection with the rice boats lying off Nantao and on the Chapei side of Soochow Creek. There are nearly a hundred of these craft at present lying here with cargo aboard. Yesterday twenty-six were reported as ar- riving, the largest number in some days. To protect the cargo the chief of the Water Police has ordered four patrol boats into ac- tion.

It is also reported that a ship is due to arrive today with a large cargo of rice ordered by the French authorities from Annam.

BEGGARS ISSUE RULE

The beggars, who are possibly the first class to be affected by rice strike, have taken cognis- ance of the seriousness of the situation. At a meeting of the headmen held Tuesday it was decided that the membership should not snatch from the for- tunate any uncooked rice. All rice snatched must be of the boiled variety. And the bowls must not be broken and must be returned to their owners.

A number of cases of rice snatching by beggars have been reported as occurring near the Temple of the Daughter of Heaven, on North Honan Road. One such instance led to a case in the Mixed Court. But the snatcher in this case violated the precept of the order. Being as- sailed by the despoiled one and several friends he crashed the bowl into the face of the fore- most of his pursuers, thereby almost effecting an escape. By the time he runs through the meal ticket issued him by the Municipality there won't be any rice strike.

Osias Says Chinese Look To Philippines For School Guidance

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 25 (by mail).—Mr. Camillo Osias, Assistant Director of the Philippine Bureau of Education, who recently re- turned from Shanghai, states that the Chinese are looking to the Philippines for "educational leadership," particularly in voca- tional and physical training.

"The Philipp'nes today hold a responsible position in the Far East," Mr. Osias said yesterday. "The Chinese Republic is keenly interested in the vocational and physical training systems used in the public schools here. The vic- tory of the Filipinos at the Far Eastern Olympiad entitles us to a greater reason for our leader- ship along these lines.

"If our country is to meet pro- perly the responsibility we ought to live up to the spirit of that victory and begin preparing for the next meet now."

JAPANESE DENY WHITE ALLIANCE; AND ARE ANNOYED

Will Take Measures If The Russians Persist In Tagging Along

(Japanese Publicity Bureau)

Vladivostok, July 1.—The services of the Japanese liaison officer, who had been despatched to Ussuri for the maintenance of connection with the Japanese Military Mission at Habarovsk, being needed no longer, he and his guard returned on the 29th inst. Together with them retired the "White" Russian militia, which might be interpreted by some as concerted actions of theirs with the Japanese.

A similar conduct of the Whites is most undesirable for the Japanese, and if they should persist in it in future, the Japanese military authorities might have to consider means of self-protection, resorting if necessary, to drastic measures.

Since the capture of Ussuri by Bochkaref, white forces seem to be concentrating at that place while red troops from Habarovsk are being moved against them. Availing themselves of the fact that a Japanese liaison officer is staying at Ussuri, the Communists spread the wholly unfounded rumor as to the "Whites" acting with Japanese support.

As a matter of fact the Japanese officer in question has been despatched to Ussuri merely for maintaining connection between the Japanese Headquarters in Vladivostok and the Japanese Military Mission at Habarovsk, having nothing whatever to do with the movements of the Whites.

It is a matter of deep regret that every action of the latter will be coupled with the name of the Japanese Army.

Cordiality Solution Of German's Woes

(French Wireless through Reuter

Paris, July 6.—Herr Walter Rathenau, German Minister of Reconstruction, today declared in the Reichstag that the solution of the reconstruction problem consisted in establishing cordial relations with the other European powers.

"We Germans," the Minister continued, "have affixed our signatures to the Treaty of Versailles and we shall do everything in our power to honor it.

"We realise the compulsory character of the Treaty but nothing can prevent us from saying openly that the form of execution of the Treaty demanded is far beyond the capacity of the country and that it is not suited to the present situation in Germany.

"Deliveries in kind and payments in gold will lead to a serious economic upheaval. The reparations indemnity has to be paid within a few years; according to M. Loucheur, the French Minister of Reconstruction, within three or four years."—(remainder of message could not be picked up).

Paris, July 6.—According to the Berliner Tageblatt various persons in Germany, including the chiefs of the German trades unions, have been arrested.

The Committee of Twelve yesterday issued an appeal expressing regret that its exhortations to the people to act in a calm and reasonable manner had not been followed and urging the maintenance of order.

The appeal continues: "The Interallied Commission has promised us liberty and justice. It has guaranteed our life and property and it alone has the power to carry out these promises.

"Individual interference with this power has no chance of success and would only result in diminishing the Interallied Commission's responsibility."

Ungern Wounded Flees To Mongolia After Big Battle

Bandits Sack Villages And Slaughter Many Peasants

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, July 1.—Latest arrivals from Troitskosavsk state that the Ungern bandits, when they entered Troitskosavsk, bore a photograph of the Grand Duke Michael on their banners. According to statements of prisoners, Ungern was wounded and escaped to Mongolia.

During the fighting the Far Eastern force proved its courage. A battalion commander, Sizoff and the commander of the Troitskosavsk garrison, Kateruhin, who was badly wounded in the arm, especially distinguished themselves.

The brutality of the Ungernists in requisitioning, robbing and killing the village inhabitants who could not escape in time, is beyond description. However, the requisitioned goods and cattle were left behind by the Ungernists during the retreat and are now restored to the peasants.

FOREIGN POST OFFICES

On account of the opposition of two ministers, no decision was reached at the meeting Tuesday of the Diplomatic Corps in Peking on the question of the abolition of foreign post offices in China. Japan sought to retain their postal rights in Shantung and Manchuria at the meeting, it is understood. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs had formerly requested the abolition of these offices on Chinese soil.

MERKULOFF RULE NO VELVET BUT A FIST OF IRON

Militia "Help" Campaign And Stop Critics Of New Rule

(Dalta New Agency)

Harbin, July 3.—In connection with the elections to the Merkuloff assembly, the Kappelists are divided into two camps. While a part of them categorically refuses to participate in politics, the other insists that the old prejudices be forsaken and the Kappelists vote as one.

Election campaign meetings in connection with Merkuloff's assembly are allowed only in the presence of the militia and on condition that the Merkuloff government is not criticised. Searches and arrests are continuing. The Japanese policy towards the Merkuloff government is in the nature of watchful waiting.

To all appearance, the hope of the Japanese to set up a Russian "government" under their protection is disappearing into thin air. The Japanese have learned the real wishes of Russian people who will not tolerate the Atamanism of Semenoff, the speculation of Merkuloff nor intervention.

Honor Martyrs Who Die Of X-Ray Burns

Paris, May 21.—The French commission endowed by the Carnegie Foundation and headed by former Premier Loubet has awarded three gold medals to Dr. Charles Infroit, whose fingers were amputated after X-ray burnings; Dr. Adolphe Leray, who was badly burned, and Dr. Vaillant, head of the Salpetrierre radiograph laboratory, who also receives fifty thousand francs.

Dr. Infroit and Dr. Leray both died recently as a result of their X-ray research work. Dr. Vaillant suffered ten amputations in ten years, losing fingers, then a hand and finally his left arm. He still is experimenting, however.

CURZON DENIES BRITONS DESIRE OIL MONOPOLY

Memorandum Sent Washington In April Published By Petroleum Dept

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—The text is published of a memorandum by the Petroleum Department, dealing with the general petroleum situation, which Lord Curzon sent to the British Ambassador at Washington on April 21. It says that Great Britain, next to the United States, is the largest consumer of oil in the world. Great Britain in 1920 imported 3,368,000 tons of oil, valued at £67,000,000, of which over 50 percent came from the United States and only 2 percent from British possessions.

The memorandum proceeds to show the absence of any general policy for the exclusion of foreigners from the oilfields of the British Empire, and concludes by affirming that the suggestion that British domination of the world's oil resources is intended or possible is entirely unfounded. The present overwhelming lead of the United States in oil production will, it contends, certainly be retained for many generations, but there is ample scope for the activity and enterprise of all nations in the development of the world's undiscovered stores of petroleum.

JAPANESE SEARCH ALL

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, July 1.—It is learned from Habarovsk that the Japanese gendarmes at Marinsk search every passenger arriving there and compel registration at the Japanese headquarters. The local Russian authorities are being summoned there for questioning. The Japanese declare that nobody may leave or enter Marinsk without their permission.

Twenty-five Millions Starving And Samara Populace Abandons Homes

(Reuter's Service)

Helsingfors, July 6.—Newspapers from Moscow show that starvation and cholera are increasing in Russia. The harvest in the Volga region has been spoilt by the drought and twenty-five millions of people are starving. Siberia is described as being in a worse condition than during the famine of 1891. The population of the Samara Government are abandoning their homes and fleeing to the east. The Isvestia states that there have been 6,000 cases of cholera in Russia thus far this year, chiefly in the large towns.

LAWN BOWLERS UNDER WAY ON FIRST ROUND OF TOURNEY; BLOOM AND SMITH ON TOP

Weather-man's Temporary Change Of Heart Means Busy Rinks; Crewe-Read And MacDougal Lose Remarkable Game At Yangtszepoo

BY "THE SHOT"

With the much welcomed change of weather, lawn bowlers have had a busy time during the past week as a result of which the first rounds are well under way.

As is usual in these events there has been one or two surprising results, and the crack Hongkew four left the green sadder, if not wiser men, after the despised rink skipped by Joe Smyth, had taken down their number.

Though the winners only won by the odd point, after peeling at the 20th their victory was thoroughly deserved, as they played an uphill game from the 3rd end.

The juniors' form was certainly below par, Alex Braid being the best of a very mediocre four. To Joe Smyth the credit of the victory is due, his bowling throughout being of a very high standard and his shot at the 20th end when he saved three was the deciding factor in the game.

A great game was the one between Crewe-Read's team and the Recs four skipped by Jack Shaw. After splendid bowling throughout the game it was ultimately left for Shaw to match the decision, by drawing a beauty with his last wood, when his opponents were lying three. A great game and worthy of both teams.

Bob Bowerman took his team into the second round by virtue of an easy victory over his clubmate Dorrance, and with Tom Main's four winning, the Recs still have three rinks in the fray. The Yangtzsepoo gang are feeling quite happy, as Bob Aitkenhead made no mistake when inflicting a demoralising win over Pharigg's' sporty, if mediocre four, whilst Charlie Richards team gave a jolly good exhibition, when defeating Willie Bissett's four who, on paper, certainly booked to be the winners. Smyth's win put the Waysiders on particularly good terms with themselves.

THE PAIRS

A wonderful game was witnessed at Yangtzsepoo on Wednesday night when that great combination Crewe-Read and MacDougal met Bloom and Willie Smith. Right from the word go it was a battle royal, the teams peeling at 9-12-13-14 and 16, this being the score at the 20th end.

Here great excitement prevailed when, with the Yangtzsepoo pair lying game, Mac decided to smash with his last wood. This he failed to do, giving Sloom and Smith the victory. Quite a diversity of opinion prevailed as to whether Mac was right in driving, but the fellow who has the work to do is the only one who knows really which is needed. For instance having no confidence in making a dead draw is fatal while a wholehearted effort to smash a close lying bunch seldom fails in effect.

Quite a different game was that between Burnside and Stormes and Buckley and Munro, when the former scored an overwhelming victory. Though not having the best of luck, the big club pair were decidedly off color. By virtue of this victory the Junior's pair enter the third round, having defeated Marks and Brown in the first.

Sandy Malcolm and Willie Bissett, the crack Wayside pair, took the first hurdle when easily defeating Ross Young and T. Spring, whilst Bob Aitkenhead and his partner had no difficulty in disposing of Brown and Millar.

The singles call for little comment, except that Tom Poignand caught a snag when meeting Harry Landers. As the latter said, Jack Dempsey had given him a good example so the only thing to do was to give Tommy the once over.—I noticed the Ping Un extra sticking out of his pocket during the game so what could one expect. Hard luck Tom but you were well beaten.

RINKS—FIRST ROUND

T. Main beat P. Critchley.
Ross Young beat F. Jones.
R. Aitkenhead beat W. Campbell.
H. Smyth beat John Burnside.
R. J. Bowerman beat R. Dorrance.
J. Shaw beat O. Crewe-Read.
C. Richards beat W. Bissett.

PAIRS—FIRST ROUND

Burnside and Stormes beat Marks and Brown.
Aitkenhead and Macgregor beat Millar and Brown.

Water Polo Game On This Afternoon At Rowing Club

Supplementary to the usual Wednesday night meetings, the Shanghai Rowing Club now hold weekly water polo practices every Friday afternoon. The second one will take place today and all wishing to have a game should be at the clubhouse by 5:30 p.m. Mr. Bengt Wallin, the famed Swedish player, who formerly represented his country in the Olympic Games in Europe, has kindly consented to act as coach and referee.

Last week only a six-a-side game could be arranged. The Blues (Brodie, Cameron, L. Goldman, Klink, MacCabe and Tatham) won by five goals (MacCabe 2, Goldman 2, Brodie 1) against two netted by the Whites (Bell, Buys, A. Goldman, Krysman, Stigter). Krygsman scored both points.

SAYS "BUGS"

Baer:

GINK FLATTENED BY OUR SHADOW

It Happened When The Roughtown Terror Was Training For Bout With The Glutt

BY 'BUGS' BAER

Dear, elk or moose, sir:

Being a constant victim of your aggravated efforts to tell the truth, I am forced to open a priceless bottle of moonshine ink to scribble the following:

Gink was never knocked kicking by man or machine. But how about the time he outpointed himself while shadow boxing? Does the shadow get the credit?

Yours till the cellars are empty.

AD LIBB,
Model Boarding House.
Southern Exposure.
New York.

Every person in this wide, narrow country has a secret orchard in his career. Gink was no exception to anything. The night he tussled with his shadow will live longer in history than a butterfly in a furnace. He threw a shadow that dented concrete, fractured sheet iron and splintered floors. When he started out on a profit-sharing massacre he always took his shadow along to do the heavy hauling and pulling. Even after Gink was flattened it took eighteen sheriffs to handcuff his shadow, which was even dangerous in a dark cellar.

At the time Mr. Libb speaks from Gink was training for his now famous scuffle with The Glutt, the champion of Riffraff, and a man who had an overwhelming majority in either glove. Not that Gink feared him. He feared nothing that fled, surrendered or crawled. He was indomitable, even if he didn't know what it meant. He couldn't spell it, either.

Bill Adams, who knows everything, says that it was the strangest romance ever seen. It seems that Bill's father was a driver on a coal wagon, and fell in love with an Indian squaw. Bill's old man was busy all day on the coal wagon. The squaw used to see him drive past, all coaled up, and naturally thought he was an Indian, too.

When the old man got through the day's work he would call on the lovely Indian. By that time it was dark. There were no lamps in Roughtown and the flies were scared to go near the burg. Therefore, the old man only saw the squaw in the dark on the front porch of her wigwam. He thought she was blonde.

It was a case of mistaken requited affections. After the wedding Bill's old man washed the coal dust off his face and sued the Indian squaw for alienation of complexion. That's the reason Bill, Jr., has straight black shoelaces, curly teeth and buttons his right glove with his left hand.

CONSTANTINOPLE COCKROACHES IN RACES NIGHTLY

Guam Eagles Dash For Lights After Bets Are All Placed

Constantinople, June 10.—Betting on cockroach races is one of the newest sports here. It was introduced by a Russian who has just opened a hall where a man who wants some real excitement for his money can get results.

The hall is darkened at the moment the race is to begin. Then a single electric light at the end of a runway is turned on, and the cockroaches, each in a separate track, are let loose from their cages to race for the light.

More real, old-fashioned, non-professional sport may be had here than in any other city of Europe. This is due in part to the Allied troops of occupation, to the American officers and sailors on station here, and the large number of American and British civilians who have come out for business since the armistice.

What the Russian refugees have done in the way of enlivening the city with concerts, dancing places and queer restaurants, the other Allies have done in sporting lines.

In winter there is wild boar, duck and fox hunting. There is also, in and out of season, plenty of horseback riding over the dirt roads and unfenced stretches of upland country on both sides of the Bosphorus. Horse races are often held.

Both the British and the Americans have laid out golf courses. There are also a few tennis courts.

The troops and sailors within the city have taken charge of a large field near Taxim, in the center of Pera and there play football and baseball matches. Yachting and swimming are commonplace sports open to all.

The Russians from the Black Sea, who are accustomed to bathe naked, have increased the popularity of the beaches, especially a fine strip of sand on the Marmora north shore known as Floria. There, without let or hindrance, men, women and children, undress on the open beach and bathe in costumes that seem quite conventional here.

The Turks have contributed chicken fights to the international sports.

DEFENDER'S KEEL LAID

Start Work On Miss America II., Harmsworth Trophy Contender

Detroit, Mich., June 7.—Work was started today on 'Gar' Wood's new speed boat, the Miss America II., with which he will defend his title to the Harmsworth Trophy late this Summer. The keel of the new boat was laid with ceremony at the Detroit Yacht Club yesterday. Chris Smith, builder of Wood's racers, hopes to have the new defender in the water early in July.

Announcement was made that syndicate boats to be entered in the Detroit Trophy races, a new feature of the annual regatta in Detroit, were being built for Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo and Toronto.

Benny Leonard Outpoints Rocky Kansas In 12 Rounds

Champion Has Little Trouble Winning; Collects Nearly $50,000

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, easily defended his honors against Rocky Kansas, of Buffalo, on June 7 in a twelve-round bout staged in the baseball park in Harrison, N. J.

The champion outclassed the Buffalo lad in everything except courage, and handed him a severe lacing, having the advantage in every round.

Early in the bout Leonard permitted Kansas to do the leading, but after the third round the champion began to warm up to the task of handing out the drubbing. He jabbed Kansas with his left and pasted him with right swings.

Kansas on several occasions hit "back hand" blows and struck low, for which he was cautioned, but Leonard paid little attention to the breach of rules.

From the eighth round on Leonard staggered Kansas repeatedly and had him bleeding from the mouth and nose.

In the opening preliminary Freddy Lux, of McKesport, defeated Bert Foffer on points.

Pele Latso, a welterweight, seconded by Freddy Welsh, former lightweight champion, scored a victory on points over Bud Logan, of Jamestown, Pa.

In the semi-final contest of eight rounds, Benny Valger, the French-American featherweight, outboxed and outfought Phil Logan.

It was announced that Leonard weighed in at 136 pounds and Kansas at 134 pounds two hours before the fight.

Leonard received approximately $50,000 for boxing twelve rounds with Rocky Kansas.

The net receipts were reported as $121,148, of which Leonard received 45 per cent or $49,064.85 in good United States currency.

BENNY LEONARD.

Attractions At The Theaters

Crowded houses nightly at the Olympic Theater bear evidence that the Shanghai film production, "Abuse of Rich Ornaments" is one of the big successes of the current season. It is a vivid drama played by Chinese actors and photographed at various familiar centers in Shanghai, being produced by The Chinese Motion Picture Society.

The theme of the story is developed from an incident of real life, the murder here about a year ago of Lien Yin, who was one of China's greatest sing-song beauties. The picture is to be shown at the Olympic through the balance of the week.

The feature offering of week-end programs at the Isis theater is "The Way of a Woman" in which Norma Talmadge appears as star with Conway Tearle. The production is noteworthy for elaborate settings and exquisite gowns.

"The Sultana of Love" is a decided film novelty which opened last night at the Apollo Theater. It is a winsome charming love story and the striking feature of the production is that the pictures are colored true to life.

Opening tonight at the Victoria a new Mary Pickford picture is to be shown for the remainder of the week. This is "Johanna Enlists," an Artcraft comedy which gives fullest scope to the star's talents. "Headin' South" which achieved a big success this week at the Apollo is to be shown at the matinee Saturday and on Sunday the matinee offering at the Apollo will be "Johanna Enlists," and two new episodes of the serial, "The Screaming Shadow."

The Russian Grand Opera Company which is playing an engagement at the Lyceum Theater tonight presents "The Mermaid" in which the principal part is played by Mme. Tcherkaskaia, who was prima donna of the Imperial Theater at Petrograd. Tomorrow night "Mignon" will be presented by the company and the final offering, on next Monday night, will be "Madame Butterfly."

The feature offering of the program tonight at St. George's open air cinema will be "Tarnished Reputations" featuring Dolores Cassinelle.

LANCASHIRE MEN ALL OUT FOR 92; CAMBRIDGE WINS

Australians Have 194 For Six Wickets; Oxford Beaten Easily

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—A crowd of fourteen thousand spectators assembled at Manchester today to see the opening of the match between the Australian cricketers and Lancashire. The weather was dull and breezy and the wicket perfect.

Lancashire batted first but made a poor showing against the bowling of Gregory who took five wickets for 41, and Hendry, who took four wickets for 30. The team were all out for 92.

The Australians batted well and at the close of play had knocked up a total of 194 for six wickets, Bardsley contributing seventy-one, including ten fours, notwithstanding the fact that he gave three chances.

In a match which concluded today, Cambridge beat Oxford by an innings and twenty-four runs.

Gibbons Awarded A Technical K.O. Over Mute Boxer

Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul phantom, gave Brooklyn fight fans a splendid exhibition of his boxing skill and slugging ability at the Brooklyn Arena on June 7, when he battered "Silent" Martin, the veteran, for ten rounds. Martin was in such bad shape at the end of the tenth session that Referee Artie McGovern would not let him continue, thus giving Mike a technical knockout.

Gibbons was out to impress the spectators and force Martin from the start. In the second and eighth rounds he had the Silent One groggy and on the verge of a knockout. In his early anxiety to hit Martin with everything he had, Mike was guilty of several low blows, but toward the close he kept swinging at Martin's face.

The weights were: Gibbons, 156¼; Martin, 162¾.

SHANGHAI MEETS ALBANY NINE AT 5:15 P. M. TODAY; WILL PLAY HURON TOMORROW

Albany Team Now Has An Old Timer As Coach Who Promises Better Games; Huron Has Three Pitchers In Shape And A New Second Sacker

If last night's rain does not leave the Race Course baseball diamond in a soft condition Shanghai will meet the team off the cruiser Albany this afternoon for the fourth time since the warship arrived in port. The game is scheduled for 5:15.

The Albany nine, though shut out in its first two games with Shanghai, once for a no-hit game against Merrill, showed a stronger game on Wednesday, when they rallied in the final seventh inning, and finished as darkness fell with a 7-7 tie. The men were out yesterday afternoon through a fast game with the Quiros, which they annexed by a score of 11-5. The sentiment of the players was that they are about ready to give Shanghai a tussle when they meet next.

The Albany team was taken in charge yesterday by an officer, who, they say, has some fifteen or more years of baseball experience behind him. He will coach the boys. He says his ship has lots of talent, and with a little spring practice and a lot of coaching he hopes to whip the men into shape to best the Huron nine in the summer games to be played at Chefoo.

HURON GAME SATURDAY

Shanghai and the Flagship Huron will meet again on Saturday, perhaps for their last game. The game will be called at 3:30 p.m., as will the Sunday game: Shanghai against the Albany. It was felt by the local management better to start the week end games later than has been usual so that the greatest heat of mid-day shall have passed before game time.

The Huron's press agent says that the flagship now has three twirlers in condition to throw, Weaver, Draper and Hawks. Draper relieved Weaver in the big Fourth of July game when Shanghai was getting next to the southpaw's offerings in the sixth. He finished the game allowing but three hits for the last three innings. He appeared to be ready to work. Hawks we have not yet seen. Both these men are entering the game for the first time this year.

FLAGSHIP STRONGER

The line up for the Huron's next game, aside from the addition of Draper and Hawks shows but one change. That is at the second sack, which has been a bothersome spot for the Navy since O'Barr returned to Cavite and Heuble left for Chefoo. Larkin will handle the middle station Saturday, if the team plays. He is a former captain of the flagship nine, a regular second sacker, and a good sticker. The navy boys have confidence in him filling up the hole.

Yesterday's game with the Quiros was a hit and run affair. The Quiros men got the jump on the bigger ship in the first inning and registered five runs. But Hanley, twirling for the Cruiser, tightened up from them on, and scoring was finished for the gunboat. The Albany got two in the third, three in the next, two more in the seventh, and cinched it by counting four more in the ninth.

The score by innings follows:

ALBANY
Runs	0	0	2	3	0	0	2	0	4	—11
Hits	1	0	4	2	0	1	0	0	4	—12
QUIROS

EGYPT'S IDEA IS HELD FOR FUTURE

Naval Defense Question Looms Large In Conference

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 7.—The proceedings of the Empire Conference at Downing Street yesterday afternoon related entirely to Egypt. It was decided that the proposals for meeting Egyptian national aspirations, while safeguarding imperial interests, which are now being considered by the British Government should be discussed in detail at a later date by the Dominions Ministers and the representatives of India before the arrival of the Egyptian delegates.

The conference had met at the treasury in the morning and discussed for two hours the German reparations and the question of the allocation of German indemnities among the Dominons, India and the Crown Colonies. The conference adjourned without reaching a decision.

The question of the naval defence of the Empire is today occupying the attention of the conference, and it is believed that the latter has decided in favor of the principle of local defence.

The discussions center around topics such as mine-sweeping, wireless telegraphy, hydrography and oil tanks. The last-named subject has assumed a position of outstanding importance in view of the decided opinion of naval authorities that oil will replace coal as the driving power of the future.

Most of the questions have been referred to a sub-committee presided over by the First Lord of the Admiralty, Lord Lee, and on which the Dominions are all represented. The sub-committee enjoys the advantage of the practical experience of Admiral Lord Beatty.

WANTS MA AT KIRIN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—The Government has received a telegram from General Chang Tso-lin at Mukden, requesting the dismissal of General Keng Yu-tien, Military Commissioner for Kirin and Changchun, and the appointment of Colonel Ma Jui-lu, Military Commissioner at Hailar, in his place.

It will be remembered that General Keng was arrested by General Chang Tso-lin recently on the former's arrival at Mukden for the Military Council.

Coleman Answers Charge Of Speeding And Is Acquitted

Trial Is Occasion Of First Appearance In Court Of Mr. J. R. Browne

As the outcome of a hearing held yesterday in the court of United States Commissioner F. J. Schuhl charges of driving a motor car at a reckless rate of speed that were made against Mr. M. L. Coleman by three complainants were dismissed. The case marked the maiden appearance in the American court here of Mr. J. R. Browne, who was admitted to the bar by Judge C. S. Lobingier recently and who represented Mr. Coleman.

The summons in the case was issued on complaint of Messrs. G. H. Kendall, H. Ross and R. E. Scatchard of the Public Works Department, all of whom appeared as witnesses. The prosecution was conducted by Sergt. Hermitage. It was testified by all three witnesses for the prosecution that while driving a car on Bubbling Well Road at the tiffin hour on June 29, Mr. Coleman in another car passed them at a dangerous rate of speed and later on Avenue Road passed them again at a high rate of speed without sounding his horn. It was estimated Mr. Coleman's car was traveling at more than 25 miles an hour near a school.

In answer to questions of counsel the defendant said that he did not know how fast he was going, but added that he valued his life too much to travel at a rate of 25 miles an hour over tramway tracks and said if he had been going at that rate of speed he could not have turned into Medhurst Road, as had been testified.

In dismissing the charge Commissioner Schuhl remarked that if every man who drove a car at the rate of 25 miles an hour were prosecuted his court and every other court in Shanghai would always be full of such cases. He warned the defendant to use his horn in future.

WOMEN DO MOST WORK IN MINES OF PHILIPPINES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 25 (by mail).—More women than men are engaged in the mining industry in the Philippines, according to figures recently compiled by Dr. Warren D. Smith, Head of the Division of Mines of the Philippine Bureau of Science.

Among women capitalists who own mine properties is Mrs. Maria Fernando, who owns an iron mine in Bulacan province, North of Manila, and devotes her whole time to mining and the manufacture of agricultural implements. Another has a controlling interest in a colliery in Albay province in Southern Luzon.

One of the largest contractors in Manila is a woman who is proprietor of a large number of sand and gravel pits, and who is said to have realised large profits in recent years on government and city contracts.

Dr. Smith mentions several other cases of mining ventures carried on by women in the Visayan group and islands to the South.

CANTONESE NOW ADVANCE UPON PINGNAM CITY

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 7.—The Cantonese have captured Tingyuen (west of Wuchow), and have reached Taiwongkong, and Kwaiping. They are now advancing on Pingnam. Detachments have been sent southwards to Pokpak and Luchuan, with a view to attacking the Kwangsi forces at Kochow in the rear.

It is reported from the North River front that General Tang Kang has been continually defeated, and that more than half the Yingtak district has been lost to the Cantonese.

Replying to a protest from the Canton Government regarding the reported transportation by a Japanese steamer of arms and ammunition to supply the Kwangsi army, the Japanese Consul at Shameen has stated that some of these munitions were landed at Shanghai. He added that precautions had been taken to prevent any similar occurrence in future. In the present case the shipping of the munitions was the action of individual merchants, and the proper attitude of the Japanese Government remained unchanged.

Put Bolomen To Flight When Children Were To Be Murdered

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 25 (by mail).—A feature of the visit of the Wood-Forbes mission to the islands south of Manila was a meeting between Colonel Gordon Johnston, a member of the party, and a Spanish family whose lives he saved 20 years ago during the Philippine insurrection.

Colonel Johnston, then a lieutenant in the 43rd Infantry, was stationed at a small town in Leyte province. One night a large force of insurgents armed with bolos broke into the house of Salvador Alvares, a Spaniard who was supporting the American cause. The bolomen were about to murder the entire family, when Lieutenant Johnston and a detachment of American troops came to the rescue. Johnston carried two babies of the family in his arms to his own quarters, and cared for them there until order was restored.

These two babies, now grown to womanhood, were present at a banquet given recently to the mission by the Governor of Leyte province. They had not seen Colonel Johnston since he saved their lives 20 years before.

Kiangsu Fails To Follow Chekiang

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—The Government has received an official report from General Chi Haich-yuan, the Tuchun of Kiangsu, in which the latter states that, in spite of the efforts of the Chekiang Provincial Assembly to influence the people of Kiangsu, in favor of a Provincial Constitution on the lines of that adopted by Chekiang, the Kiangsu gentry, and the Provincial Assembly, are paying no attention to this propaganda and there is not the slightest chance at present of such a movement gaining ground in Kiangsu.

SAFEGUARD THE CHILDREN

Again Hot Weather Ills.

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time, and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness.

The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, in the house feels safe. The occasional use of these Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, and if sickness comes suddenly they help bring the little one through.

Baby's Own Tablets make teething easy, are a positively harmless remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. Are equally helpful to the youngest infant as to the child of 6 or 8 years. Obtainable from druggists, also post free, 60 cents the vial, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Curtain Hanging

By Mrs. Christine Frederick.

The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

MUCH of the effect of a house from the outside is made or marred by the kind of curtains and the way they are arranged; and from the inside, also, these furnishings play an important part in the decorative scheme of the rooms.

One must not forget that the chief use of any kind of curtain is to serve as a frame to the window out of which a view is seen. I am speaking now, of course, of fabric curtains, and not of the stiff green or white roller shades.

The exact style of curtain to be employed will depend on the style of the house and of the room—the "period" of the room, if it has any, and whether it is informal like a bedroom or the more dignified living or dining room. In general, the simpler curtain is more suitable to bedrooms and the more intimate rooms of the house, unless it be of the "cottage" type. If the latter is the case or if the curtains are for use only in Summer the simpler kinds, arranged in a plain way, are always best taste in all rooms.

One common style is called the "Dutch curtain." These consist of two long side pieces, with a short valence set between across the upper part of the window, the whole being shirred onto one rod or pole. These are excellent for all Summer use and can be developed in madras, scrim, net, marquisette, etc. Generally such curtains are made the whole width of the goods at the sides and have a twelve to eighteen inch depth to the inner valence part. The edges of this upper valence, and also the inner edges of the side parts, are edged with fine embroidery, rick-rack braid, balls or fringe, or may be with the real hem of the goods itself.

Another plan is to have side curtains of one material, generally thin and lightweight, with over-curtains of cretonne or other heavier and darker material. In this case the side curtains come just to the window-sill, and the true valence has a depth of about eighteen inches or less and extends entirely across the whole window width, covering the side pieces as well. The result is that the whole window is encased in a kind of frame of color. In this plan the cretonne is usually set so as to completely cover the window frame or woodwork, as if brought nearer the glass it would take up too much of the light.

In arranging this type of curtain you may come up against such a real "snag" as I myself did. They require a double rod to make them even and perfect in line. This double rod consists of two rods, one slightly above the other and both joined to a single end of metal. The side curtains are shirred on the lower rod and the upper valence on the top rod, thus allowing it to fall gracefully over the lower curtains.

These double rods are quite fussy and expensive in the large sizes, but they are the only way to make these curtains look as they should. If the window is a special size the rod must be cut to measure, and the long rod held up in the centre by a hook, which will be covered, however, by the upper valence.

For these over-curtains either cretonne or silk or near-silk effects in the darker colors are used. For Summer nothing is prettier, more airy and bright than the bright cretonnes, which gained their first popularity through William Morris, the great English decorator and designer of fabrics. It will pay to buy good fast colors, and these cost at present from seventy-five cents to $1 a yard. In many cases the fabrics are so wide that one-half the width may be used for the side curtains.

All-over net, Brussels and other similar fabrics hung clear to the floor are no longer in good taste. They catch dust and interfere with air coming in freely.

Silk is very soft and attractive, but really extravagant, as it rots badly in sunlight. The author has had a wide window draped with yellow raw silk curtains for only one season, and has just discovered that the valence is practically rotten, as was the silk in other parts.

A combination "camouflage" silk wears far better. Many of these have a mercerized finish and come in the solid shades. The real silk pongee is very soft and lovely for inner curtains, but it also rots when exposed to the strong action of the sun.

Cheap curtain rods are poor economy. Wait until you can buy really heavy and good ones or do not buy at all. The cheap rod which extends only a short distance is a delusion. It tarnishes badly, loses its shape and never keeps the curtain in place. The slightest weight sags such light rods; better to get a heavy rod of a longer extension.

Flat rods are the best of all. They have no balls or points to fall off and they give the curtain a neater, more handsome appearance. They are especially curved at the ends to make a neat angle with the window. By all means, purchase flat rods for neat effects.

If you live, as I do, where the air tarnishes metal badly, use wood rods. I ruined an expensive set of dining-room curtains solely because the rods rusted and stained every one of the curtains all along the heading or shirring so that they became unsightly. I am now putting white enamel wood rods on all these windows and throwing away the metal ones.

If a pole or rod of the exact width cannot be found, try using narrow strips of flat wood and paint them yourself. Block up the ends with small blocks of wood in order to extend the rod sufficiently far out over the window to give a good effect.

Curtain hems are the great bugbear—if only they can be made even. Make the hems at the bottom first—from two and one-half to three inches. Then hold this hemmed end along the sill or whatever surface it is to touch. Do this over and over until the straight edge of the hem just touches the sill. Then make the upper shirring.

If sewing a trimming or braid to the curtain edge be careful not to pull the braid into a peak at the end of the sewing, as this peak will swing out unevenly from the straight line which the curtain should always make parallel to the window.

Getting Rid of Flesh

By Lina Cavalieri,

The Most Famous Living Beauty.

THE Emperor Napoleon had a habit which made him the terror of all the ladies of the First Empire court who were at all inclined to corpulency. No matter how ceremonious the occasion nor how great the rank of his victim, he would stop in front of the unfortunate and announce in a voice which all the room could hear that he was surprised to observe that she was getting so heavy. Great soldier that he was, Napoleon regarded humankind from the soldier's viewpoint of physical fitness.

Now that the men of the world have again returned to soldiering they, too, are beginning to adopt the Corsican's standard of physical fitness even for their womenfolk. So, those of us who do not measure up to standard must practise flesh reduction if we would not fall from favor. This is one of the good signs of the times, for as reduction makes constant demands upon the will-power it is as excellent a moral as a physical education.

Powerful drugs for this purpose are so harmful that I cannot too strongly advise you against them.

Diet, air, exercise are the "Do's;" not too much sleep and no lounging are the "Don'ts" which guide the seeker of harmonious outlines along the path to her goal of beauty. Her case is quite like that of the young recruit. When he enters the army he is confronted with a list of "Do's" and "Don'ts" which to him seem tyrannical. Yet by the time they are learned he is happily awakened to the fact that he has become physically another man.

The exigencies of war have complicated the diet question somewhat, though in the long run the Government regulations will prove most helpful. Potatoes, though not at all good flesh reducers, are now so plentiful that it is our duty to make use of them. So if you eat potatoes let the rest of your meal consist only of lean meat or fish and green vegetables. Do not permit one morsel of starchy food to add to the potato starch.

Use bread that is composed largely of rye, oats and barley flour, and abjure the luxury of buttering your bread. But if your will is too weak to forego this indulgence see that you use no milk, cream nor oil at that meal. In fact, these three articles should be off your list of acquaintances.

The numerous green vegetables which patriotism bids us utilize are the best foods not only for flesh reduction but for health, building. Cream soups are too expensive for aught but profiteers, so I shall not mention them. Yet if you are very fond of soups take a cup of meat or clam bouilion for luncheon when you are eating nothing else.

Dried beans and peas are scarcely the reducer's friends, yet since at present it may be impossible to avoid them, eat no bread, potatoes and but very little meat or flesh at the same meal.

Sweets, especially cake and candy, are most harmful, yet I well know how the lack of something of this kind often seems to get upon one's nerves. A few bites of chocolate occasionally will do more to relieve one's nerves than they will to increase one's weight. But upon these rare occasions do not take more than one or two small pieces.

Really a meal without dessert is so depressing an experience to most women that I am going to tell you of a safe way to gratify yourself on the days when you are tired of eating fruit for this purpose. There is an endless variety of desserts made of gelatine with but little sweetening and various fruit flavors. Gelatine will neither increase nor decrease your weight. So if you resolve to use no cream nor syrup sauces you may have a different dessert each day and snap your fingers at the very small amount of sugar you have consumed in this self-indulgence.

Drink unsweetened tea and coffee. Alcoholic drinks of even the mildest kind you will avoid of course, for they are builders of adipose tissue. Drink plenty of water between meals and also the last thing at night and the first thing in the morning. Whenever you feel yourself becoming depressed at the hardship of your road to svelteness eat an orange, a peach, a few plums or other fruits, or drink a glass of unsweetened lemonade, and forget your trials.

There is one direction in which you cannot practise too great self-indulgence. Take plenty of air of all varieties and under all circumstances. Hot air will increase your flow of perspiration and thus reduce you. Cold air will harden your flesh and increase the oxygenation of the fat tissues.

Sleep with all windows wide open and if possible keep them open throughout the day. Go out as much as possible and walk briskly; play tennis, golf and any other sport that is seasonable.

But remember, if you have not been accustomed to an active life you must adopt this new form of living gradually, otherwise your heart will rebel against this too sudden demand upon its resources.

Secrets of Beauty

I AM not yet twenty and am so high chested that I feel embarassed. Please tell me some way to reduce my bust.—F. G.

You are young enough to take the most natural and, therefore, the best way of reducing the bust, viz., by vigorous shoulder and arm exercises. The ones for reducing the bust are extremely simple, but I am told that three weeks of the following exercise alone will reduce the bust to nearly half its size. Fasten a wall pulley in your bedroom at a convenient height. Stand with your back to it, grasp the handles and let the weights pull your arms out and back as far as they will do. Then pull them down over your head and strike out as if delivering a blow.

MY fingers ache from rubbing freckle creams into my face. I have tried them all to no avail. Can you give me a remedy that will really remove them?—A. H.

Possibly you rub the cream into your skin too vigorously, my dear. But don't despair; I have had freckles, too. Yet to-day my skin is as smooth and as free from those unwelcome brown spots as a baby's face. But it takes a strong remedy to accomplish real results, and you must be prepared to find your skin peeling a trifle and even quite irritated occasionally by the daily use of the following:

Bichloride of mercury	6 grains
Alcohol	1 ounce
Glycerine	2 ounces
Oil of lavender	10 drops

MY face is disfigured by small black spots. They look like moles, but are not. Can you tell me how to get rid of them?—H. G.

Touching these spots repeatedly with a stick of lunar caustic, which turns the skin black and must be confined to the blemish it is to remove, may help you to drive away these defects. A little salicylic acid moistened with alcohol or glycerine and applied to the spots for half an hour is also a good remedy for skin disfigurements of this sort, but I do not advise its use except under a physician's direction.

I AM a young girl and love to have a good time, but my bust and legs are so large they make me ashamed and I don't get around very well. I've got to lose sixty pounds. Please tell me how to do it.—R. C.

I don't know just what abnormal conditions have caused your trend to obesity at such an early age, and it may be that you had better consult a physician about the matter. But I do know that you are not going to find any release from this distressing bondage to the flesh except through physical exertion and a more restricted diet. This means exertion to the point of real wholesome fatigue and unremitting self-discipline. Eat a great many apples and oranges as well as lemons. The complete elimination of one of your three meals a day will aid greatly in securing the desired results.

Science Explains Why Your Cake Wasn't Good

EVEN the most experienced housewife occasionally has poor luck with a cake. She uses precisely the same recipe she has used with success many times before, but when the loaf finally comes out of the oven it is either not fit to eat or not nearly so delicious as previous ones were.

Students of the science of cooking have been studying this problem and they have discovered many things that will help every housewife to have fewer cakes that are failures.

In the experiments which led to these helpful discoveries a standard cake recipe was used. It included 1 cup of milk, ½ cup of butter, 1½ cups of sugar, 2 eggs, 3 cups of pastry flour, 4 teaspoons of phosphate baking powder, 1 teaspoon of flavoring and ½ teaspoon of salt.

The ingredients were carefully weighed with the exception of the salt and flavoring. The batter was baked in muffin tins two inches in diameter at the base and two inches tall, at a temperature of 342 degrees Fahrenheit.

Many different cakes were prepared from this recipe and baked. Each time the quantity of the different ingredients or the method of combining them was varied. And the results in each case were carefully noted.

Most good housewives have long believed that nobody could produce a good cake unless the butter and sugar were thoroughly creamed and the batter beaten well before baking. But all this proves to be a waste of time and labor.

In the recent experiments the most uniform results were obtained where all the cake's ingredients were put in together and stirred only sufficiently to mix thoroughly.

The bother of separating the whites and yolks of the eggs was found not worth while except when more eggs and less baking powder are used. In that case the proper leavening of the cake is dependent upon the air folded in with the stiffly beaten whites.

Another fact established by these experiments is that it makes no difference how the fat used in a cake is softened. Whether warming or creaming be the method followed no change can be seen in the finished product.

A cake baked without any beating whatever showed a coarse, even texture and a flat top. It crumbled easily and had a soft crust that was somewhat rough.

Similar cakes beaten for one minute and two minutes, respectively, before baking showed a closer texture and a tendency for tunnels to form. In the cakes which were beaten for five and ten minutes each these tunnels were very marked, and in the case of one beaten ten minutes the texture between the tunnels was solid and compact.

Increased beating also, it was found, makes the cake become smaller, the crust smoother and the top form a pronounced peak.

To determine whether or not these changes were due to the fact that the carbon dioxide supplied by the baking powder had been lost during the long beating, two other mixtures were made up, one containing baking powder and—the other not.

The batter containing the baking powder was baked immediately without any beating. The other was beaten ten minutes, after which the baking powder was sprinkled over the top and stirred in.

The cake made according to the latter method was somewhat larger than the first one and of a slightly finer texture, but very similar in texture. The difference in texture was especially evident when the cake was eaten. There was not, however, sufficient improvement to pay for the time and effort involved when the beating must be done by hand.

The conclusion that it was loss of carbon dioxide which caused the peculiar texture of the beaten cakes was strengthened by the observation that any considerable reduction in the amount of baking powder produced similar results even in the unbeaten cakes.

All the experiments went to show that manipulation is one of the chief factors in determining the quality of a cake. In an ordinary cake the method of combining the ingredients is not in itself important except as it controls the amount of mixing and beating.

From one to two minutes—depending upon the energy with which the work is done—is the amount of beating that gives the best results. Less than this produces a cake of coarse, crumbly texture; more gives one of compact texture with tunnels.

All this will be good news to housewives who have always thought long, vigorous beating necessary to obtain a good cake. It makes clear what has long been a puzzle—why the cake with which the most pains is taken often proves a flat failure, while the one which was put together in the greatest hurry is usually a pronounced success.

Another result of these interesting experiments in cake making was to prove the importance of the relation which the various ingredients bear to each other.

It was found that increasing the sugar up to a certain point makes the texture of a cake finer. But even a slight increase beyond this point makes the texture coarse and causes the cake to fall.

An increase in the amount of egg alone toughens the cake and produces tunnels with beating. Increasing the fat alone makes the cake rich in flavor and tender, but if used to excess the cake will not hold its shape.

Recipes for Children

By Mary Lee Swann,

The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Oatmeal.

HAVE ready a pint of boiling water to which has been added ½ teaspoon salt. Drop ½ cup oatmeal into the boiling water, stirring constantly. Cook gently for 3 hours or longer. Strain. Thin if desired.

Scraped Beef.

REMOVE the fat from round or other suitable cut of beef. Place on board or table and scrape with back of silver knife or spoon. Shape pulp into small balls and broil quickly on a hot ungreased griddle. Sprinkle sparingly with salt and season with a little butter.

Asparagus.

WASH and remove the scales from young asparagus stalks. Cook until tender in slightly salted water. Place on a warm plate and drain well. With tips of fingers catch the hard end of the stalk and scrape the tender pulp away from it, using a fork or a spoon. Only the soft, tender pulp should be used.

Vegetable Cream Soups.

PRESS a cooked vegetable through sieve, and to 1 tablespoon pulp add ½ cup of the liquid in which the vegetable was cooked, ½ cup milk and a few grains of salt. Thicken with ½ teaspoon flour mixed with a little butter. Cook, stirring constantly, until flour is well done.

Bran Bread.

MIX 1 quart of bran with 2 cups flour, sifted with 1 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup molasses and 2 cups sour milk. Mix well and bake in a slow oven about 1 hour.

Barley Gruel.

MIX 10 tablespoons barley flour with a little cold water and then add 1 pint boiling water, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Add a small pinch of salt and cook gently an hour. Add more liquid at end of time to make a pint and reheat to boiling point. Strain.

Carrots.

WASH and scrape 3 or 4 carrots and cook them until tender in 2 cups of skimmed white soup stock or salted water, adding more water as necessary. Press through a sieve, add 1 teaspoon of fine bread crumbs, a few grains of salt and a little butter. Reheat.

Toast Water.

CUT 2 slices of stale bread about ½ inch thick and remove the crusts. Bake in a slow oven until very dry and evenly browned. Break in small pieces, add 1 cup boiling water, cover and let stand 1 hour. Squeeze through cheesecloth, season to taste with salt and reheat.

Foochow No Dying Port, Says Report Of Customs' Head

Five Million Taels Gain In Trade Over Prior Year Recorded In 1920

A newcomer to the port might form an erroneous opinion of trade conditions here were he to believe all he hears, asserts Mr. Percy R. Walsham, commissioner of Customs at Foochow in his report for 1920 which has just been received from the printers. For some, times are none too good, says the commissioner but if statistics count for anything, Foochow is by no means a dying port.

The net value of the trade was Hk. Tls. 25,612,810, as compared with Hk. Tls. 20,740,234 in 1919. These figures bear testimony to a general state of well-being, which goes far to dispel the gloomy forebodings of those who are wont to compare the present times with those of the good old days.

To many the depression in the foreign tea trade hangs like a pall over the port; and, undoubtedly, there is every reason for pessimism. Foochow's glory was its tea trade, in which most, if not all, the foreign hongs were interested; but its splendor in this respect is fast fading. In the words of a gentleman intimately connected with tea, whose remarks are embodied in this report, "the trade in China teas with foreign countries is passing through the worst crisis in its history." Small wonder, therefore, that there is a feeling of despondency. Fortunately, our teas are not entirely dependent on foreign countries for a market. If they were, the outlook would certainly be depressing. There will always be a good demand for the green varieties in North China. And perhaps some day black teas will come into their own again. At least, let us hope so.

SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY

Timber again left the port in large quantities, and the figures of the previous year, which were a record, have been greatly exceeded. The export of camphor, too, continues with unabated vigor. This short-sighted policy of destroying national wealth without any attempt at replacement has so often been commented on in former reports that it may seem unnecessary to refer to the subject again. But the matter is of such vital importance to the province that it is essential it should be brought up constantly until something definite is done to remedy the evil.

It is estimated that in a few short years softwood planks will have disappeared from our returns, as the pine, from which they are obtained will have ceased to exist as a commercial proposition. The camphor tree is another variety of timber indigenous to this province which is being ruthlessly cut down, as the large and ever-increasing export of camphor proves. So if the Government is going to act it must act promptly or it will be too late. The fir is the only timber replanted. Commonly known under the name of Foochow poles, it is exported in large quantities, principally by junk, and will remain a source of revenue when the pine and the camphor trees, under existing conditions, will have become a matter of history.

The Japanese boycott shows little sign of relaxation, though popular feeling appears to have calmed down considerably since the events of 1919. But at present there are no indications of renewed trade relations. This is a pity. To cut off your nose to spite your face is a senseless procedure, yet, seemingly, this is what the Chinese here are doing. A heavy freshet, the worst experienced since June 1914, occurred towards the end of June. On the principle that any stick is good enough to beat a dog with, the new river conservancy was blamed for the floods; but it would be interesting to know who shouldered the responsibility in 1914, when the freshet was half a foot higher, or in 1886, when it was 1 foot 2 inches above the 1920 level.

TEAS TAKE SLUMP

The value of the trade in Chinese goods reached the excellent figure of Hk. Tls. 14,331,884. This result is most pleasing and tends to dispel the gloom the rapid decline in the foreign tea trade has cast over the port. Black teas experienced the worst year in the annals of Foochow: only 24,891 piculs were shipped abroad, as against 71,185 piculs during the previous year. Writing on this subject, a gentleman intimately associated with the trade has favored me with the following remarks:

"The trade in China tea with foreign countries is passing through the worst crisis in its history. Of the 1920 crop, only some 29,000 half-chests have been shipped, mainly to Great Britain, and consisting almost entirely of fine teas. Although the business has been lamentably small, there is some satisfaction in the fact that shipments of North China congous have been still smaller, which would seem to confirm the opinion held by many that, given an equal chance, the fine true souchongs and Chingwo congous can prove their superiority over any other China teas. Early in the year the opinion was generally held among the Chinese teamen that, before the season was over, a market would again be found in Russia; but time has shown this to have been an entirely false hope, and the situation that has resulted from this over-production cannot help but have a harmful effect on the revival of the trade, as there is no visible outlet, either Chinese or foreign, for the bulk of the teas.

"Owing to the enormous stocks in Europe, the great fall in exchange, which took place during the season, did not have any reviving effect on the market, as c.i.f. prices were still far above those ruling for preferred grades of India, Ceylon, and Java teas. The business in green tea, mostly scented, with the North China markets has been good; and although this compensates the tea growers, to some extent, for the falling off of the foreign demand, the trade is one into which the Chinese controlling the production of the teas required for the foreign markets have not so far entered, and into which, for economic reasons, the foreign firms are precluded from entering."

TIMBER EXPORTED

As was the case in 1919, timber takes the premier place in our list of goods exported from the port. 28,111,466 square feet of softwood planks and 1,730,355 poles left the port by steamer, an increase of 7,442,432 square feet and 721,618 pieces respectively. At the same time the Native Customs passed 2,372,272 square feet of softwood planks and 10,447,487 poles. This is the largest quantity of timber to leave Foochow in the past decade. No less than 10,026 piculs of camphor, valued at Hk. Tls. 1,086,118, were exported, or 3,039 piculs more than in 1919. Molybdenum ore appears for the first time in our returns. Of the 321 piculs exported, 266 piculs, valued at Hk. Tls. 17,583, were for Great Britain and the balance for Dairen.

The year has been a very good one for native manufactures. Aided no doubt to some extent by the Japanese boycott and the restricted importations of piece goods from abroad, a big demand has sprung up for Chinese steam factory products, such as sheetings, drills, cotton yarn, etc. The value of the trade was Hk. Tls. 6,131,711, as against Hk. Tls. 3,219,039, and there appears a likelihood that the coming year will witness further expansion under this heading.

MIN RIVER CONSERVANCY

Steady progress has to be recorded in the scheme for improving the Min River between Nantai and Pagoda Anchorage. For improvement purposes the river divides itself into three sections: from Nantai to Lienpo, from Lienpo to Pektao, and from Pektao to the Government Dockyard at Pagoda Anchorage. The construction work in the first section is practically completed at the time of writing, and it is proposed to take in hand the third, and what may be termed the worst, section immediately. The second section has a good channel for nearly its entire length, and since there are two schemes for alignment in this section there is every reason for leaving it to the last. Already a decided improvement is noticeable in the approaches to Nantai. Launches drawing up to 5 feet can proceed almost immediately after low water, and it is hoped that by the end of the year the first section will be navigable for such vessels at all states of the tide.

Mr. West, engineer-in-chief to the Conservancy, is most optimistic as to the ultimate success of the work; but, naturally, it is impossible to say definitely when the expected result will be achieved. Certain factors were not taken into consideration at the commencement. For instance, climatic conditions were not sufficiently appreciated, but have an important bearing on the work. It is estimated that about a third of the time is wasted, that is, the work held up, by freshets, heavy rains, and typhoons. Then, again, there is the question of material, and, unfortunately, the Conservancy has experienced considerable difficulty in securing bamboo and stone in proportion to its requirements. Happily, these difficulties are being overcome.

The Conservancy has been fortunate in securing a quarry, and, with pontoons for carrying the stone, is no longer entirely dependent on boatmen and contractors. A grab-bucket dredge has been purchased and is being put together at the Government Dockyard, through the courtesy of Admiral Chen Chao-chiang, the Director, and it is hoped that it will be in commission shortly. This dredge will facilitate the removal of stone sunk in the fairway by the Chinese when the French attacked Foochow in 1884. Mr. Von Heidenstam, engineerin-chief to Whangpoo Conservancy and consulting engineer to the Min River Conservancy, paid a brief visit to the port in February 1920 and expressed himself satisfied with the progress so far accomplished.

TO AID STEAMERS

The result of the freshets will be watched with great interest during 1921. Even with the small amount of training works in position the effect has been remarkable. One small island opposite Green Island washed away about 1,000 feet, and it is hoped that this hindrance to the free course of the current will have disappeared entirely by the end of the coming season. There are still sceptics who do not believe in the possibility of steamers eventually coming right up to Nantai, while others, though admitting the possibility, do not see how it is going to benefit the port. An old parliamentary hand once remarked "wait and see"; and this seems a fitting reply in the circumstances. So first let us put our river in order and then we can tackle the problem of building up the trade of the port with greater confidence.

Considering all things, the local commercial results for the year were not so bad as might have been expected, in spite of the political unrest which existed throughout the province. The Native Customs yielded results above the average, both in value of trade handled (the total valuation, viz., Hk. Tls. 11,241,396—which, however, does not include Hk. Tls. 2,250,881 coming under the heading of riverine trade—formed a record) and in revenue collected, showing the vitality of the true domestic junk trade. The total revenue collection amounted to Hk. Tls. 244,625.

The chief contributors to increase in imports were raw cotton, which rose from 2,303 to 3,754 piculs; dried dates, from 1,904 to 5,555 piculs; fish, all kinds, from 195,460 to 235,676 piculs; samshu, from 5,256 to 10,132 piculs; and sugar, from 36,522 to 40,030 piculs. Amongst the few items that show a decrease may be mentioned beans and beancake, which dropped from 46,131 and 39,406 piculs to 34,643 and 21,915 piculs respectively; coal, from 339,414 to 198,274 piculs; nankeens, from 13,201 to 10,656 piculs; and sea blubber, from 46,319 to 32,616 piculs. Owing to the increased cost of coal and the Japanese boycott, the Li Shan Coal Mining Company, established in 1920, are now selling coal briquettes at $9 per ton. They throw out a good heat, and a fair business is being done, the Foochow Electric Light Company having been appointed agents.

The export trade generally remains on a par with that of the previous year. Paper, however, shows a decrease of some 15,000 piculs. This shortage is, to some extent, accounted for by the presence of piracy and military operations up river, the fear of their junks being commandeered by soldiery or the goods being pirated causing the paper merchants to hesitate in their shipments.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 7, 1921

Spot bar silver was down 5/8d. and forward 1/2d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 59½ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 371.

At the opening the only change in the official quotation from yesterday was in the Gold Dollar rate which was dropped to 66½.

Shortly after the opening, however, the official Sterling rate dropped to 3/6½ and the Gold Dollar rate to 65½ with corresponding changes in the other rates. This drop, however, made little change in the market which was steady throughout the day.

While there was no particular pressure to sell for cash, slightly better rates were obtainable for near delivery than for forward, there being sellers of Sterling between 3/7¼ and 3/7½ for July as against 3/7 for August and September.

A fair amount of business in Gold Dollars was done between 66¾ and 67.

Yesterday's drop in silver was not unexpected in view of the substantial rise of the preceding day and while there does not seem much likelihood of any material rise in the price of silver just now there does not on the other hand appear to be any likelihood of any material drop.

The market closed steady.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending July 6:

Exchange:—The London price of Silver at 36⅞d. is 1¾d. higher than last week. The rate has been effected by China purchases which as far as we are able to gather have very little to do with the balance of Exports and Imports, the former, remaining very dull, the latter, showing some signs of improvement in the way of deliveries until the advance in exchange and general unrest, politically in China caused a falling off in this respect. The purchases of silver by China appear to be the result of an upset in the June settlement of Inter Bank transactions, which created a demand for cash and was aggravated by deliveries of Gold Bars to certain Banks in large amounts by our local Gold Dealers who also wished to secure their cash position. High premium for cash above the official quotation resulted to the extent of 3d. and against these rates imports of silver have been arranged at rates which show a good profit. Cover for such importations of silver, are not forthcoming from Exports, and unless there is a great improvement in this important feature of exchange operations, it may be taken that the arrivals of silver in Shanghai which are now beginning and will, we understand, continue, must eventually lead to a fall in our Exchange rates.

Our Market closed steady with 3/7½ for cash T.T. on London and 3/7, the official quotation, forward. Compared with the premium offered for cash during the last two days indications are weak.

Our stocks of Silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 32,860,00, an increase of Tls. 290,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $27,800,000, an increase of $470,000.

Estimated value in Taels Tls. 52,876,000 as against Tls. 50,540,000 held at this time last year.

Merkuloff's Failure As Seen By Chita Agent

BY M. BARANOVSKY

(Assistant Manager in Shanghai of the Rosta and Dalta News Agencies)

OVER a month has elapsed since the setting up of the Merkuloff government in Vladivostok. It is becoming evident now that the seizure of power has not fulfilled the hopes of his backers, the Japanese. The hand of the Semenovists could not strike to the heart of the Russian people. Semenoff, encountering a generally hostile attitude from all elements of the population, has been compelled to give up his attack, as planned, upon Chita.

Now, what has been accomplished during the past month by the new government upon which the Japanese Command built its plans?

During its month of existence Merkuloff's regime has adopted the most extreme of reactionary measures. The first was the dissolution of the People's Assembly, elected by the entire population of the Maritime Province.

This action was brought about by the refusal of the representatives to recognise the usurper's authority. With the Assembly's rights over-ridden so ruthlessly, there was left no other course. It defied the power of the adventurers, and was dissolved.

There is a vague pretext of summoning a new assembly; but it is difficult to understand clearly what this assembly will be like, boycotted by the whole population; to this effect resolutions are being passed by the villages trade unions throughout the province.

After the assembly had been dissolved, the trade unions were suppressed. Organisations of a character regarded as lawful in every country of the world, their headquarters were raided and their property and all their records were destroyed.

It is interesting to behold, too, in a movement professedly abhorring the tyrannous practices of the Bolsheviks, the muzzling of the press. Several of the Vladivostok newspapers have been suppressed. The new government has just promulgated a law, perhaps the most drastic ever devised, whereby the Merkuloff dictatorship has effectually stifled expression of public opinion through the medium of the press. Editors are at any time liable to arrest, and publishers may be fined as much as 1,000 gold roubles.

THE VOLUNTEER FLEET

A new director has been placed in control of the affairs of the Volunteer Fleet, a certain Mr. Kompanion. This gentleman, on instructions, as he says, from Mr. Fedoroff in Japan, is transferring the ships and the stores of the fleet to Tsuruga. The government must of course have been aware of the facts in the case, but acquiesced, making no protest.

The goods stored in the customs warehouses, purchased during the war, and belonging to Russia as a whole, are being disposed of by agents of the government, and for the most part are being sold to friends from the Land of the Rising Sun. Such seem to be the accomplishments so far of the Merkuloff government. Not a hopeful record.

As for the city of Vladivostok itself, the situation is simply described by saying that the city is now entirely cut off from Russia by reason of (1) the coup, (2) the dissension with the Semenovists, and (3) the threat of an advance by the forces of the Far Eastern Republic. The city thus isolated is ceasing to function—it is a dying community.

This view is substantiated by an interview of a business man who recently arrived in Harbin from Vladivostok. He said: "Trade in Vladivostok has been absolutely killed. The trading class and the government officially explain it as a 'depression' in trade, but it is not a depression. At a secret meeting of the Vladivostok Chamber of Commerce it was resolved that all kinds of trade operations should be suspended during the continuance of Merkuloff's government in Vladivostok. The Chamber also decided against the members having any business relations with Merkuloff's government."

"What is the attitude of the population toward the government?" asked the reporter.

"To what government are you referring? If you are speaking of Merkuloff and Co., as I said, merchants boycott it and refuse to recognise its authority. If you wish to know the attitude of others then I must say that except for the extreme right groups the whole population is shy about considering Merkuloff and Co. any kind of government at all.

"If the former government returns to Vladivostok you can not imagine with what enthusiasm Mr. Antonoff (former President of the Maritime District) will be welcomed by all classes of the population.

"During one month of its existence Merkuloff's government has antagonised all elements of the population. Laborers and even the office forces are failing to receive pay that is due, though exceptions are noted in the case of Merkuloff's friends. For this reason there is great hardship and want throughout the city."

With the population suffering under these conditions, the government seeks a way out of its difficulties. What is done? A non-socialistic conference is brought together. But the conference, made up of avowed enemies of the existing order in Russia, has only this negative thought in common. It is characterised by an utter lack of unanimity. It has divided and broken up. The attempt of Merkuloff to maintain the fiction of a representative people's body has failed.

As for the attitude of the people toward the new government, it would seem that support should be found in the merchant class. But their attitude is openly against it. It can be confirmed that the Vladivostok Chamber of Commerce has recalled its representative from the non-socialistic conference.

It is not necessary to dwell upon the attitude of the peasants, Cossacks, and laborers. Resolutions from many of the villages of the Maritime Province evince a clear-cut opposition to the Merkuloff government and its course of action. They declare unanimously in support of the Far Eastern Republic, and refer to the Merkuloff followers as Russia's enemies.

MERKULOFF AND THE JAPS

When we speak of the Merkuloff government, the policy of the Japanese Command should not be lost sight of, for it is no mystery whence Merkuloff derived his plans, who prompted the movement, and who affords it protection at present.

We come to the conclusion that this latest adventure of the Japanese Staff has failed. The falling through of their plans is due to several causes.

The chief aim of the Japanese militarists, to rekindle civil war in Eastern Siberia, failed chiefly on account of the scarcity of men willing to undertake the work of murder and terrorism. There were too few who for 30 pieces of Japanese silver stood ready to bring added ruin and sorrow to the heart of the Russian people.

The betrayed Kappelists this time were not deceived by the bait of the Japanese. They showed no eagerness to start civil war again, for they understood that at the present time civil war would be of benefit only to Japan, and no one else. Even through anti-communist elements the Japanese Staff and its agents, the Merkuloff following, have been defeated. There is no civil war.

Other causes contributed to the defeat of the plans of the Japanese Staff, though the unwillingness of the Kappel troops to be used as tools in the sordid business played perhaps the chief part.

A strong factor was the impression that these events made abroad. The openness of the Japanese in their activities in the overthrow, all the while declaring themselves neutral, has been made clear to public opinion abroad by the notes of Chicherin and Yourin that deal with these events. The facts disclosed a sinister duplicity.

In the British Parliament there was an interpellation, demanding full information and particulars. The United States transmitted instructions to Messrs. Abbott and Davis at Chita to inquire into all the circumstances connected with the overthrow.

JAP MERCHANTS SUFFER

The foreign press openly refers to Japan as the instigator of the movement. In Japan the situation is not regarded as creditable to the military party. The labor movement speaks of those who "stand on the quarter-deck of the Merkuloff craft." Japanese merchants who have been trying to devise methods of promoting trade with Siberia are disheartened at the adventure of the Japanese Staff, for the vast regions beyond the Maritime have now been cut off. Except for the official section of the press, Japanese newspapers are voicing their dissatisfaction.

The Japanese capitalist press, even the Tokio Asahi and others, are demanding the opening of negotiations with Chita, and the concluding of a commercial agreement.

As a result of this not very brilliant stroke the Japanese militarists have been placed in a difficult position. Their expectation of renewed civil war failed to materialise; the blockade of the Far Eastern Republic has developed simply into the shutting out of Japanese business; the economic advantages hoped for from the Merkuloff government have not been realised, since in the circumstances agreements and concessions signed by this government would be devoid of any value.

On account of the trend of opinion abroad, in Japan, and through the Far East, as well in Siberia, Japanese negotiations for a loan to the Merkuloff government have been suspended. A fact of this kind is significant, confirming the view that Japan has failed to find a way through.

In the event of negotiations with Chita, Japan will be in a position to use the situation to exact more favorable terms. Herein the Japanese Staff may be said to have accomplished something for the Foreign Office. For this end, despite the differences between the Merkuloff and Semenoff groups, both parties will continue to receive a modicum of support. The existence of these forces also helps to provide an explanation for the continued occupation of the Maritime, when the matter comes up before international opinion, the alleged disorder in the region. An excuse is provided: no law, no government, civil war.

To consider the Merkuloff government, therefore, we must consider the plans of the Japanese Staff, for the two organisations are in effect one. Left alone, the Russians would soon compose their own political differences; and when the last transport leaves Vladivostok, on board will be noted a number of distinguished passengers, the Merkuloff "government."

All things considered, the sooner this event takes place the better for both nations, for Japan as well as for Russia.

Health Nuggets

(Issued by U. S. Public Health Service)

Germs are usually a hand to mouth affair. Better wash up.

Holes in the street are warnings against more holes. So are holes in the graveyard. Repairs in time will delay both.

Some people say that sanitation doesn't pay. Well, it doesn't pay doctors and grave-diggers. Be sanitary; seek health before you need it.

Nevada, last of all the States, has passed a law to co-operate with the U. S. Public Health Service in the fight against venereal disease. And Congress has just cut out the appropriation for such co-operation after July 1 and has left all 48 States high and dry.

Wonder how the mosquito likes the yellow fever and malaria germs that she acquires from man, asks the U. S. Public Health Service. Does she ever warn her daughters not to bite the bad man because it may make them dreadfully sick if they do?

Typhoid fever was spread in South Carolina by undisciplined workmen and camp followers of the army in 1918. Since then the State authorities have reduced the disease 40 to 58 percent in certain countries by mere sanitary education. If there, why not elsewhere?

Venereal diseases are diseases, not crimes, says the U. S. Public Health Service. Many people have been infected innocently or in very early youth. The incidence of the disease in boys of seventeen is very high.

Professor Raymond Pearl, of the U. S. Public Health Service, has discovered that both the suddenness and the destructiveness of the first flu epidemic coincides significantly with the normal death rate from heart diseases in many American cities. It does not so coincide with the death rate of any other important disorder. The inference is obvious.

If treated promptly by reliable doctors or at public clinics, venereal diseases can be cured, says the U. S. Public Health Service. Patent medicines bought without competent advice often do great harm. The same is true of the work of most doctors who advertise that they cure "men's" diseases.

Many lives and much property are lost every year because of accidents due to veneral diseases. So great in fact are these losses that the National Safety Council has issued a bulletin on them. For instance, four serious recent railway wrecks were traced to employes who failed because they were suffering from paresis, which is a form of syphilis.

Opinions have differed as to the fatigue-causing powers of different occupations; and many efforts have been made to establish a scale for definitely ranging them. A recent report of the U. S. Public Health Service states that the amount of sulphur excreted through the kidneys of men engaged in a wide range of work has been found to coincide very closely with the relative arduousness of the work, as estimated by four good observers.

Both syphilis and gonorrhea may cause blindness, says the U. S. Public Health Service, the first usually through inheritance and the second by infection of the new-born child. The latter may become blind in a single day if the attending doctor has failed to cleanse its eyes with a few drops of a one percent solution of silver nitrate. Most States have for some time required this treatment. Six more—Idaho, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas passed laws requiring it at their latest legislative sessions. Doctors failing to obey these laws are liable for damages if blindness to the new-born results. Insistence on the treatment will practically remove this source of blindness.

U. S. Public Health Service doctors are studying how to prescribe for streams that are suffering from over contributions of sewage. When once a quantitative relation between the pollution on the one hand and the population industrial wastes stream flow, and temperature on the other has been established the steam doctors will be better able to prescribe the sort of tonic that will restore the stream to health and make it available for drinking or industry or both.

In order to save workingmen from ill health resulting from insanitary working conditions and to save manufacturers from incurring claims from damages it is necessary for the Public Health Service to examine physically both the workmen and the plant in which they work. Some manufacturers and many workmen fear examination, believing that it will be used to make trouble for them, and not realising that undiscovered defects in either plant or man will surely lead to serious results. To such the Public Health Service says that it is strictly neutral and that it will not "tell tales" Its object is to improve the health of the men and to enable the factory to save money by making its employes healthy by giving them healthy working conditions.

Tuberculosis patients in U. S. Public Health Hospitals will soon be able to view a cinema film of one reel that shows the effects of sun treatment on bone and gland tuberculosis, as exemplified at the J. N. Adam Memorial Hospital, Perryburg, N. Y. It is believed that the showing will encourage the patients to stick to the rigorous outdoor treatment necessary for cure. The film will be taken to each tuberculosis hospital in turn.

British To End Feudal Land Tenure

London, May 1.—It is an anomaly of eliminating the feudal system of that in this year of our Lord 1921 land tenure!

a bill is being introduced into the . One usually associates feudalism British Parliament with the object with the Middle Ages, and the history books state that the Black Death, which culminated in the fourteenth century, was largely responsible for the break-up of the manorial regime. As a matter of fact, the history books are right, but Britain's laws evolve slowly, and in the eyes of the law the whole picturesque array of medievaldom still exists.

Many of the survivals which the bill, sponsored by Lord Birkenhead and generally similiar to the measure pushed by Lord Haldane in 1914, when it was sidetracked by the war, is designed to terminate, mean little save to the antiquarian or the barrister. For instance, the bill would end the legal existence of lords of the manor, thane, knight, vassal, socman, villein, steward, reeve hayward, headborough, grieve, woodward and beadle. Other anachronisms which would be terminated are the payments of fines, heriots, quit rents, free rents, estovers, escheats, courts leet and courts baron, view of frankpledge, assize of bear and of bread. How many of these terms mean anything today?

And yet the practices which they designate remain to complicate the purchase or renting of land.

FOR LANDLORD'S BENEFIT

"Britain's laws," the American who contemplates buying or renting will be told, "are framed for the benefit of the landlord. One has a devil of a time to get a place, but he has a worse time in getting out of it!"

However that may be, it is a fact that British law, the source of our common law, is a very involved and very technical thing. Precedent? There are decisions handed down seven hundred years ago upon which cases even now may be decided. Lord Birkenhead's bill, known as the law of property bill, would repeal, among other things, the statute of uses. Now, the statute of uses is a comparatively new bit of legislation, for it was not put on the books until the time of Henry VIII—a mere four hundred years or so. But it still governs certain transactions in land.

The law of property bill itself bristles with legal terminology. While a close study of it would delight the heart of the lawyer who is interested in the evolution of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence, the lay reader would be hopelessly lost before he had read half a dozen clauses. Its progress through the House of Lords will probably be slow, for there are more timely measures to claim the attention of the upper house.

GIST OF PROPOSED REFORMS

Here is what a legal writer has to say about the gist of the reforms embodied in the measure:

"The bill gives facilities for overriding all interests in land, except legal estates in fee simple or for a term of years absolute, equitable interests have to be registered to escape being overriden, and all charges and incidents are to be appraised as definite terminable amounts.

"Another salient reform is in the application of the existing law relating to the devolution of personal estate on an intestacy to land generally. This involves change in the rule of inheritance of an intestate's landed estate; among other provisions, kindred more remote than second cousins are excluded, the crown taking the place of all others.

"Copyhold tenure is absolutely to disappear, only 'the quaint and inoffensive services of grand and petty sergeantry' remaining.

"All manorial 'incidents' must be ascertained and redeemed or their redemption provided for within five years, and at the end of ten years all will cease to be operative whether declared or not."

It makes one wonder whether the antiquarian of 2421, rummaging among the dusty records of five hundred years before, will find that "Dora" (the defense of the realm act) is still in effect, and that for over four centuries the law prohibiting the sale of chocolates in theaters after 8 o'clock has been ruthlessly broken.

How Hot Does The Moon Get

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Problems of Scientific Interest

These three questions are from a Brooklyn man:

"(1) Is there any heat at all on the moon during its revolution around the earth? During a solar eclipse the moon is approximately 240,000 miles nearer the sun than the earth is.

"(2) Has the moon an atmosphere?

"(3) Has the ether which is assumed to fill all space objective existence?"

It is best to take these questions in the reverse order, beginning with the last and ending with the first. Then, as to the other—if it exist, which Einstein is disposed to deny—it must necessarily be an objective entity, since it serves as a medium for the production of objective effects. It carries electricity, light, heat, etc., and all of these radiations of energy are phenomena that directly affect our senses.

The ether is objective as air is only less evidently so. You see the light, you feel the wind. In neither case do you otherwise perceive the agent through which the effect is produced. Of course I don't mean to suggest that the ether is no more than an excessively rarified air, although the great Russian chemist Mendeleeff was not very far from that in his speculation about the atomic constitution of the ether. Suppose the ether differs from a gas somewhat as a gas differs from a liquid; then there would be four forms of matter—solid, liquid, gaseous and etheric.

ATMOSPHERE UNPROVEN

Turning to the second question, it can only be said that there is no direct evidence of the existence of an atmosphere on the moon, while there are apparently good reasons for affirming that the moon could not continue to retain an atmosphere composed of the gases that make our atmosphere, even if it started out in possession of one. The commonly cited proofs of the absence of an atmosphere on the moon are that no refraction phenomena are perceptible at the edge of the moon's disk when a star disappears behind it, that no clouds ever appear above its bare surface, that no evidence of the existence of water or aqueous vapor appears there, that there is no indication of such weather action as would alter the details of the topography of a world possessed of an atmosphere like the earth's, and that no trustworthy sign is found of the presence of life on the moon either now or in the past.

The reason for believing that the moon has no atmosphere because it is incapable of retaining one is based upon the kinetic theory of gases, according to which all the molecules of a gas are in continual vibration, flying about "every which way" with great speed, and colliding with one another so that each molecule is incessantly turned from its course, except at the outer boundary, where if no obstacle is interposed, a certain proportion of the molecules will escape and not come back. The speeds of the molecules vary with the kind of gas, and these speeds have been approximately ascertained for each gas.

DRAWING POWER LESS

Now, among the obstacles capable of arresting a gaseous molecule is the force of gravity of a planet. The earth, for instance, brings back to its surface any object, large or small, whose speed is less than about seven miles per second. If the speed exceeds that amount the object, or particle, or molecule, may escape entirely from the earth's gravitational control. But the moon, because of its relatively small mass, cannot retain any particle that seeks to escape from it with a speed exceeding a mile-and-a-half per second.

With these facts in mind, let us examine a list of the maximum speeds of the molecules of the various gases which we know as constituting an atmosphere. These are for hydrogen 7.4 miles per second; for aqueous vapor 2.5 miles per second; for nitrogen 2 miles per second; for oxygen 1.8 miles per second; for carbon dioxide 1.6 miles per second.

Not one of these falls within the limit of 1.5 miles per second which marks the velocity of escape for the moon. The natural inference is that even if the moon began with an atmosphere it must eventually have lost it, for little by little all of the molecules of all the gases would reach the outer boundary and thence fly away never to return. It will be observed that the maximum velocity for hydrogen exceeds even the earth's limit, and this accords with the fact that our atmosphere contains oxygen, nitrogen, aqueous vapor, carbon dioxide, but not hydrogen, which when set free defiantly sails away into space.

SUN'S RAYS UPON MOON

Concerning the third question, we may say, in the first place, that the difference in the moon's distance from the sun between new moon and full moon cannot average more than a short half million miles, and the effect of this change upon the intensity of the sun's heat would be very slight—less than one percent. Various estimates have been made of the temperature imparted to the airless surface of the moon by the sun's rays. That of F. W. Very is probably the most trustworthy. He makes the temperature of the lunar rocks at its maximum 200 degrees Fahrenheit, but owing to the rapid radiation the heat is lost so quickly when the sun is down that the temperature of the same rocks during the lunar night may be more than 100 degrees below zero.

TEXACO GREASES

If you think all greases are the same, make this test:

Use Texaco Grease on one bearing, another kind of grease on a duplicate working part, operating under the same conditions. See which lasts the longer. The results of such an experiment will speak for themselves.

The same manufacturing care is expended on Texaco Greases as on any other Texaco Product. They are made from the finest zero cold test mineral oils and selected compounding materials. Each different grade is adapted to a specialized use. There is a grade to meet every need.

Mokanshan News

Beautiful weather has greeted this year's arrivals at Mokanshan. Nearly all of the houses on the mountain are already occupied and last year's high record population of 725 visitors may be surpassed this summer. Many of the old-timers are in America or elsewhere in China, but the improvements being made each year, especially in transportation, are bringing large numbers of new guests.

The celebration of Independence Day was a great success. A snappy program of athletic events for the boys and girls was first run off under the direction of Mr. H. Benjamin and the Sports Committee. Mrs. McMullen and her committee served excellent refreshments, while the speeches and musical numbers arranged by Mr. Estes were well received. C. L. Bromley spoke for America and made a forceful presentation of her opportunity to serve the world today. Mr. Evan Morgan, representing Great Britain, also made a short address, couched in felicitous language. Finally, a baseball game was played between teams captained by Gustafson and McCloy, which was won by the former.

Prof. M. G. Kyle of America, who writes on archaeology for the Sunday School Times, delivered addresses on Sunday and Monday, one on the civilisation attained in Palestine before the entrance of the Israelites and another on the Pentateuch. Several other visitors of note are scheduled to give addresses here during July and August.

The swimming pool and tennis courts are as popular as usual, while the library and kindergarten will soon be under way. With its splendid location and its wealth of recreational opportunities Mokanshan makes a pretty fine summer resort. The only really in the ointment is H.C.L., but that fly has plenty of relatives all over China just now.
